Preface

Practice Makes Perfect: English Conversation is designed to give you practice with the vocabulary and structures that are most often used in common types of informal conversations.

This book is comprised of fourteen chapters, each one devoted to a particular conversational topic, arranged in no particular order. That is, each chapter begins with a typical conversation, which—like most natural conversations—may include a variety of verb tenses and moods. As the chapters are arranged by topic—not by grammatical forms or difficulty—you may change the order of topics/chapters according to your interests, or perhaps to coordinate with a textbook prescribed for your courses.

Following each model conversation is a discussion of vocabulary and structures that are particularly useful for the type of conversation in question. You will find that certain expressions are used in more than one chapter, providing reinforcement, and demonstrating how these expressions can be used in different contexts.

After each discussion section are several sets of written exercises designed to help you feel confident that you have understood the material. The exercises also give you practice in using new vocabulary and structures so that you will be able to use them in your own personal conversations.

At the end of the book you will find four Appendix sections: A – a list of the most common Irregular Past Tense and Past Participle forms; B – a review chart that outlines Tag Questions and Answers in all the tenses; C – a review of Modal Verb Forms in the Present, Past, and Future; and D – a Glossary of the words used in the book. An Answer Key to all of the exercises follows.

We hope you will find this book useful as you practice your English in conversations with your English-speaking friends and acquaintances, and that you will continue to learn, enjoy, and express yourself in this dynamic language.

Introducing yourself and others

Conversation: Meeting at a party

TODD: Hi—you must be John's cousin Matt, right? From San Diego?

MATT: Correct! I just got in last night.

TODD: I'm Todd, John's roommate from Tech. Glad to meet you. I can assure you that I'm not anything like what John has told you.

MATT: I'm happy to meet you, too—and, yes—I have heard about you! Football player and party animal extraordinaire.

TODD: Football, yes—and as a matter of fact, I do like parties. But tell me more about yourself and what you do in San Diego.

MATT: Well, I'm more (of) a surfer than a football player. You know, San Diego has a fantastic coast—and we can surf all day and then party on the beach at night.

TODD: That sounds awesome. How long are you staying?

MATT: Well, I'll be here for two weeks. John has promised me a nonstop schedule—kind of a mix of sightseeing, meeting his friends, checking out the local scene, and—hopefully—camping in the mountains for a couple of days.

TODD: John's a good guy—and you can be sure he knows the local scene. He knows everybody in town. I'm sure he'll show you a good time. And his friends are here to help.

MATT: Thanks so much—I really appreciate that. I'm still a bit jet-lagged at the moment but should be in good shape by tomorrow. I'm looking forward to hearing what John has in store for me. . . .

TODD: Don't worry. We'll all take good care of you. And don't be surprised if we show up on your doorstep in San Diego one day, ready for surfing!

Improving your conversation

I'm Todd (Jones)

Simply using I'm and then saying your name is one way to introduce yourself. You could also say, for example, My name's Todd (Jones). It is customary to offer your right hand in a handshake to the other person. In very informal situations, you could just say Hi, I'm Todd, with no handshake.

To introduce one or more people other than yourself, say:

This is (my wife), Mary. And this is Susan, Bob, and Joe.

To introduce more than one person and also tell how you know them, say:

These are my friends, Susan and Bob. And this is Jim, my coworker.

All of the people introduced would then shake hands. You could also say:

I want you to meet (my friends,) Susan and Bob.

Glad/happy to meet you

When you have been introduced to someone, it is customary to say (I'm glad/happy to meet you or It's nice to meet you). The reply is I'm happy to meet you or I'm happy to meet you, too. (The underlined words are pronounced slightly louder than the others.)

Right?

Right? is an informal way to ask for confirmation that what you have just said is true. The answer can be That's right!

This train goes to Washington, right?
You're from Panama, right?

That's right.
That's right, I am.

Correct!

This is an informal answer to a question that asks for confirmation.

You're Matt, aren't you?
This is Economics 101, right?

Correct!
Correct!

If you want to tell your questioner that he or she is not correct, you can politely say this with, for example:

No, that's not right.
No, that's not correct.
No, I'm not Matt; I'm Jim.
No, she isn't my sister. She's my cousin.

(The underlined words in the examples should be spoken slightly louder than the other words in the sentence.)

To sarcastically indicate that something is not correct, Yeah, right! is used.

Dylan, I heard you just won the lottery jackpot!

Yeah, right! Where did you hear that nonsense?

Am, do, etc.

When a yes-or-no question using the verb to be is asked, the answer can be made emphatic by following it with a tag, in which, if the answer is yes, the verb is said a little louder than the other words. Affirmative tag answers are not contracted.

Are you unhappy?
Is he sick?
Are we winning?
Are they leaving?

Yes, I am.
Yes, he is.
Yes, we are.
Yes, they are.

When the answer is no, there are two ways to answer with a tag. The underlined words are the ones said a little louder. Negative tag answers are usually contracted. The full form makes them more emphatic.

Are you unhappy?	No, I'm not ./No, I am not .
Is he sick?	No, he's not ./No, he isn't ./No, he is not .
Are we winning?	No, we're not ./No, we aren't ./No, we are not .
Are they leaving?	No, they're not ./No, they aren't ./No, they are not .

When an information question using any verb other than to be is asked, the answer can be made emphatic by following it with a tag, in which the verb is said a little louder than the other words.

Do you eat meat?	Yes, I do ./No, I don't ./No, I do not .
Does he like school?	Yes, he does ./No, he doesn't ./No, he does not .
Do we wait in line?	Yes, we do ./No, we don't ./No, we do not .
Do they live here?	Yes, they do ./No, they don't ./No, they do not .

Review the formation of tag questions and answers in Appendix B, pages 165–170.

As a matter of fact

As a matter of fact is a common expression that has a number of different meanings. In our example conversation it introduces a confirmation of what was previously said. It can go before the main clause or after the verb.

I heard you were looking for a job.	As a matter of fact , I am !
Your friend is very good-looking; is he single?	He is , as a matter of fact !

You can express the same meaning with actually, but put it after the verb.

I heard you were looking for a job.	I am , actually .
Your friend is beautiful, but I'll bet she's married.	She is , actually .

Just

This use of just indicates that something happened only a short time before. It can be used with the past tense or with the present perfect tense. For example:

Past tense	Present perfect tense
I just arrived.	I have just arrived.
They just finished.	They have just finished.
We just ate.	We have just eaten.
He just called.	He has just called.

To get in

To get in means to arrive.

What time did you get in ?
They got in late last night.

Another way to say to arrive is to get there.

I hope we get there on time.
She will get there by six.

To get in can also mean to be accepted by a school/college/university or other group with limited membership.

He applied to that college and really hopes to get in.
She didn't get in her first choice of sororities, but she got in another one, and she's happy.

I can assure you that . . . /you can be sure (that) . . .

These are common ways of saying that you believe something to be true, hoping to win the confidence of the person you are talking to.

I can assure you that I will work hard.
You can be sure that something interesting will happen.

Here is another way to express that you believe something to be true:

I promise you that we won't leave until the work is done.

Party animal

Party animal is an informal expression used to characterize someone who spends a lot of time with friends or acquaintances for entertainment—either at home or in public places.

My friend Eric will take you downtown on Saturday night; he's a real party animal, so you'll meet lots of people.

Extraordinaire

Extraordinaire is a word borrowed from French, pronounced in English “ek stra or d- NAYRE.” It is used to exaggerate the meaning of the previous word.

I'd like you to meet Marc—he's our pastry chef extraordinaire. You have to try his cheesecake!

What do you do?

The question What do you do? asks what one's job or occupation is. When you answer with a form of to be, you give a general job title. Note that the article a is always used when referring to only one person but is never used when referring to more than one person.

What do you do?	I'm a lawyer.
What does he do?	He's a painter.
What does she do?	She's a banker.
What do they do?	They're professors.

When the answer refers to someone who has a special title or position (i.e., is the only one in that position), use the instead of a.

What does he do?	He's the president of ABC Enterprises.
What do you do?	I'm the school secretary (the only one).

When you answer with another verb, you give more specific information about where you work.

What do you do?	I work for a large firm.
What does he do?	He drives a delivery truck.
What does she do?	She works at Atlas Bank.
What do they do?	They teach French at Loyola.

When a specific time or place is included in the question, the answer refers to how people spend their time, not just what their jobs are.

What do you do on weekends?
What does she do at the beach?

I relax and hang out with my friends.
She surfs, relaxes on the beach, and goes to the boardwalk for fun.

Tell me about yourself

Tell me about yourself is a polite way to let someone know that you are interested in learning more about him or her. It is better than asking direct questions, as the person being asked can decide what to tell and what not to tell. For example:

Tell me about yourself.

Well, I'm twenty-seven, I have a degree in mathematics, and I've been working at SYZ Company for three years. My parents are both economists, and I have a sister who's a nurse and two younger brothers. They all live in Connecticut, where I was born. I'm crazy about football and have season tickets. I listen to reggae, etc.

Tell me about yourself.

Well, I'm from a small town, and I came here to work.

In the United States, it is considered rude (impolite) to ask someone's age if the person is obviously over 21, or how much that person makes (earns), or how much that person paid for something (unless it was obviously under $20).

Awesome

Awesome is an expression that is used a lot—maybe too much!—to say that you think something is really good. Other ways to express the same thing include great, fantastic, terrific, wonderful, and cool.

So . . . how do you like it here?
Did you like the movie?
Thank you for taking me—you're awesome!

It's awesome!
It was awesome!

Nonstop schedule

Nonstop schedule describes the activities of a very busy person, whether it be because of work, school, family responsibilities, or even social life.

I don't have time to see you this week, with my nonstop schedule.

Other ways to indicate nonstop activity are around-the-clock or twenty-four-seven (twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week).

I get telephone calls around-the-clock.
He works twenty-four-seven, so I hardly ever see him.

A mix

A mix refers to a combination of different elements, usually indicating variety.

There will be a good mix of music at the wedding, to keep the grandparents, the parents, and the young people happy.
We invited a mix of people—family, friends, coworkers, and neighbors.

Hopefully

Hopefully is a word inserted to indicate your wishes that something will happen. It can come in the middle of a verb phrase (will + hopefully + verb), before the subject, or at the end of a sentence.

I'll hopefully graduate in two years.

Hopefully, I'll graduate in two years.

I'll graduate in two years, hopefully.

If we leave right away, hopefully we'll arrive on time.

A couple of

A couple really means two; however, informally, it can mean more than that—but it does indicate a small number.

I'll see you in a couple of hours.

It only costs a couple of dollars.

He'll be home in a couple of months.

I'll see you sometime today.

It costs less than five dollars.

He'll be home before the end of the year.

A good guy

Calling someone a good guy is a common way to recommend a male as being understanding of someone's situation, helpful, or generous. A female with the same kind of recommendation would be called understanding/helpful/generous.

If you're looking for a used car, go see Danny Baeza; he's a good guy and will probably give you a good price.

If you want a teaching job, call Chandra Bagia; she's very understanding and will give you good advice.

The local scene

The local scene refers to the culture and range of entertainment offered in a particular area.

I'm moving to Springfield next month.
What's the local scene like there?

Oh, it's great! There are lots of things to do at night and on weekends.

To show someone a good time

To show someone a good time means to make sure he or she is entertained.

If you come visit in December, we'll show you a good time. All our friends have parties in December!

Thanks so much

Thanks so much is a common way of expressing appreciation. Other ways to say this are Thank you very much/Thanks a lot/I really appreciate this/You're a doll (very informal)/You're a sweetheart (very informal).

The reply to any of these could be You're welcome/No problem/I'm glad I could help you/Glad to help/Any time.

Thanks so much for fixing my tire.

I really appreciate it.

Thank you very much for helping us.

No problem.

You're welcome. Any time.

To be in good shape

To be in good shape means to be fit financially or situationally.

My sister's husband has a good job, so they're in good shape financially.
She has a good education and a lot of experience, so she's in good shape for the job market.

A similar expression, to be in shape, means to be physically fit.

She exercises every day to stay in shape.
You look great. How do you stay in shape?

To be looking forward to something

The expression looking forward to + verb ending in -ing indicates that the speaker is very happy about a future event.

I'm looking forward to seeing you on Saturday.
She's really looking forward to going to college in the fall.

Another way to say this is with the expression, can't wait to + verb.

I can't wait to see you on Saturday.
She can't wait to go to college in the fall.

To have in store for

The phrase to have in store for indicates an unknown situation that someone presents to someone else; it can be good or bad.

Well, I'm going home, but I have no idea what my family will have in store for me.
We're going shopping tomorrow to see what the designers have in store for us this season.
He's been working there for years, but he never knows what's in store for him until he gets there.

To show up on someone's doorstep

To show up on someone's doorstep means to visit someone without notice. It doesn't necessarily mean that you plan to stay overnight—or longer—but it's possible.

I was just getting ready to go out when my cousin showed up on my doorstep.

Related expressions are drop in and drop by, but these are used only for short visits—never an overnight stay.

We were in town, so we decided to drop in to see you.
Please drop by for a while. I miss seeing you.

To show up, on the other hand, is used negatively to indicate that someone often doesn't appear when expected.

Pia said she was coming, but you never know if she'll show up or not.

Another meaning of show up, when used with a direct object, is to perform or seem better than someone else.

Your singing was fantastic! You showed up all the other contestants.
He will show up the competition with his fantastic speech.
She showed us all up when she came in wearing that red dress!

Conversation: Getting acquainted

LAUREN: Hi—you must be Sarah. I can tell from your picture. I'm Lauren. Finally we meet! So we're going to be roomies this semester!

SARAH: Yes, I recognize you from your photo, too! I'm so glad to meet you in person—and I see from your T-shirt that you like baseball. I'm a big fan, too!

LAUREN: Well, the T-shirt was a going-away present from my brother, who's a baseball player. Look on the back—it has a photo of all the players on his team. They actually won the city championship this summer.

SARAH: That's awesome. I tell you, I'm not very athletic, but I love to watch baseball, even if it's a Little League game. You could say I'm a professional spectator. What about you, do you play a sport?

LAUREN: Yes, I play tennis. As a matter of fact, I have a scholarship, and I'm going to play for the university. Now tell me, what else do you like to do?

SARAH: Well—what I like to do best is dance. I'm studying classical ballet, but I also like to dance to popular music.

LAUREN: Cool. We have a lot in common. I like to dance, too. Think you'll be up for checking out the local clubs this weekend?

SARAH: Oh, yeah. And the restaurants, too. Speaking of which—are you hungry? I'd love to grab a bite before it gets too late. I'm starving!

LAUREN: Are you kidding me? I'm always up for going out! How about trying the place up the street? I'm kind of hungry for a good hamburger.

Later:

SARAH: Lauren, what do you think of our room?

LAUREN: To be honest with you, I really can't stand that dark color on the walls. It's, like, really depressing. I prefer light colors. Plus, I'd like to change the rug and the bedspreads. Do you like them?

SARAH: No, I agree with you. They're horrible. With a couple of coats of paint and a few small changes, we'll make this room comfortable and cozy. Everybody will want to hang out here.

LAUREN: Man, I'm so relieved! I think we're really going to get along. I'm going to call my mom right now and tell her how cool my new roomie is.

Improving your conversation

Like

Like has a number of different meanings and uses. What do you like? asks what things a person finds pleasing.

Do you like ice cream?	Yes, I do./No, I don't.
What kind of ice cream do you like ?	I like vanilla. My sister likes chocolate.

What do you like to do? asks what activities a person enjoys.

What do you like to do on weekends?	I like to relax and go out with friends.

Would you like . . . ? is a polite way of asking what someone wants.

What would you like for your birthday?	I would/I'd like a big party.
What would you like to do today?	I would/I'd like to go to the movies with you.

I'm/she's/he's/etc. like . . . is often inserted into a conversation to emphasize what someone is currently feeling or thinking. This is especially common among young people.

I'm like really mad at him.
She's like scared to death.
It's like the worst movie I've ever seen.

Love

Love, when it refers to a person or people, indicates deep affection. When love begins, there is often a feeling of great excitement, called being in love.

Her husband loves her, but she is no longer in love with him.

Love, when it refers to a thing, indicates a thing or an activity that a person finds very pleasing.

Do you like ice cream?	Yes, I love it!/No, I don't like it.
Do you like to go shopping?	Yes, I love it!/No, I don't like to.
Would you like to dance?	I'd love to!/I'm sorry; I promised someone else.

What do you think of . . . ?

What do you think of this? is a way of asking someone's opinion of something.

What do you think of the new teacher? She's strict, but I think she's great. I like her.

Are you kidding me?

Are you kidding me? is an expression that indicates that something is so true—or untrue—that it doesn't need to be said.

Do you like to dance?	Are you kidding me? I'd rather dance than eat!
Would you like to go shopping tomorrow?	Are you kidding me? I have to study!

Up for

To be up for something means to want to do it.

Are you up for going to the movies with us? Yes, I'd love to go.
I'm not really up for doing anything tonight.
I'm too tired.

Alternative expressions are to feel like doing something or to be in the mood for (doing) something.

Do you feel like going to a museum? No, I'm not in the mood for (going to) a museum today.

Stand

To stand means to tolerate/to accept.

Big fan

To (not) be a (big) fan indicates that someone does or does not like something.

I like movies, but I'm not a big fan of science fiction.

Other ways of indicating something one likes include awesome/cool/fantastic/great/amazing.

College is awesome. My professors are cool, the classes are fantastic, the nightlife is great, and my friends are amazing.

These words are interchangeable—all of them work in the positions of the others.

College is great/fantastic/cool/amazing. My professors are awesome/fantastic/amazing, the classes are awesome/cool/great/amazing, the nightlife is awesome/cool/fantastic/amazing, and my friends are awesome/cool/fantastic/great.

Other ways of indicating dislike include horrible/terrible/depressing/gross/disgusting.

I didn't like that show; I thought it was horrible. The plot was depressing, and the dancing was gross.

Going-away present

A going-away present is a gift customarily given to someone who is leaving for an extended period, perhaps to go to college, to move to another area, or to work in another place.

They gave me a picture of everyone in the office as a going-away present when I left for my new job.

Tell

Tell is used in a number of expressions. It is followed by an object pronoun (me/you/her/him/us/them), the name of a person, or a word that refers to a person or people (friend(s), parent(s), etc.).

Tell me is a way of asking someone to relate information.

Call me and tell me about your classes.

After tell me, the subject-verb order of a question using the verb be is reversed.

Who is she?

Tell me who she is.

What are you doing?

Tell me what you are doing.

With all other verbs, the do/does is dropped, and the verb is conjugated normally.

What do you do?

Tell me what you do.

Where do they go?

Tell me where they go.

When does he get in?

Tell me when he gets in.

Don't tell me indicates that you fear a certain answer.

Don't tell me you're sick! (I'm afraid you're sick!)

I tell you indicates that you really mean what you are going to say.

I tell you, the dorm is really gross!

I'm telling you, it looks like rain.

Tell is used with the truth, with or without an object pronoun.

He always tells (me) the truth.

Can tell indicates the ability to know something without being told. It is followed by a new clause with a subject and verb.

I can tell (that) you had a good day by that smile on your face!

Can you tell I've been crying?

Say

Say indicates making an utterance but without indicating that it is directed at any particular person.

What did he say?

He said that he didn't know the answer.

Say to + an object pronoun or a person's name can be used to indicate information directed at a particular person or people.

What did he say to you?/What did he tell you?

You could/might say indicates a suggested conclusion.

You could say she's in love.

You might say the cafeteria food is gross.

Speak

To speak means to use a language orally.

They don't speak English at home.

She lost her front teeth and speaks with a lisp.

The teacher spoke for almost two hours.

Speaking of which is an expression that indicates that something mentioned reminds one of other information about it.

I'm going to apply to the state university. Speaking of which, did you know Melissa is going there?

Our state representative is up for reelection. Speaking of which, I heard she is coming to speak at our school next week.

Finally

Finally indicates relief that something long awaited has happened. It goes after a conjugated verb.

I've been looking for my keys all day, and I've finally found them.

An expression with the same meaning is at last, which goes at the beginning or end of the clause.

At last I've found them!

I've found them at last!

So

So has many different uses. In the example conversation it introduces information that both people already know.

So this is your new car. Will you take me for a ride?

So you're getting married! Congratulations!

Actually/as a matter of fact

Actually and as a matter of fact often have the same function. They have many different uses. In the example conversation they indicate that a fact is a little surprising but of interest to the other person.

So you're an Arabic teacher! I actually studied Arabic in college.

I want you to meet my sister. As a matter of fact, she'll be here in a few minutes.

Even if

Even if can introduce a fact that seems a little hard to believe.

I'm going to finish this paper even if I have to work on it all night.

Plus

Plus adds additional information that reinforces an opinion or argument.

I like him. He's really nice. Plus, he's good-looking.

To be honest with you

The phrase to be honest with you introduces a statement that you think a person might not want to hear.

Thank you for inviting me to the movies, but to be honest with you, I'm not really a big fan of horror movies.

Yeah

Yeah is an informal way of saying yes. It is pronounced with two syllables: “ye-uh.”

Man

Man introduces something that the speaker feels strongly about. (It can be said to or by a male or a female.)

Man, this course is really hard!
Man, I wish I could take a week off!
Man, your sister is beautiful!

Get along

Get along (with someone) means to live, work, or play with someone without problems or arguments.

He’s very easygoing. He gets along with everybody.
Tom and his brother don’t get along. They’re always fighting.

Hang out

To hang out means to do something socially with one or more other people.

We’re going to hang out at Jess’s house this afternoon. We’ll probably just listen to music, maybe practice that new dance step.

Grab a bite

To grab a bite (to eat) means to get something to eat quickly.

We’re in a hurry to get there, so we’ll just grab a bite to eat at a fast-food place.

Roomie

Roomie is an informal name for a person who shares a bedroom or home with you.

How do you like your new roomie?

Scholarship

A scholarship is a prize or an award that provides money that enables someone to attend a private school or university.

I’m hoping to get a scholarship so I can go away to college next year.

Little League

Little League is an organization that teaches baseball to children, organizes them into teams, and arranges games and tournaments for them.

He just loves baseball. He’s been playing it ever since he was in Little League.

Conversation: Talking about roommates

TRAN: So, Michael, what's your new roommate like?

MICHAEL: Well, if you have all day, I'll describe him for you. He's quite the character.

TRAN: I don't have all day, dude—but basically—do you get along with him?

MICHAEL: Actually, yeah—but that's only because we hardly ever see each other. The guy sleeps all day. Sometimes he gets up just to go to his classes, and then he comes back to the room and goes back to bed. Then he'll get up at midnight and study all night.

TRAN: Really? You don't eat together, then?

MICHAEL: The truth is, I don't even know when he eats, or where.

TRAN: Then at least he doesn't leave a mess in the kitchen.

MICHAEL: No! The guy is incredibly neat. He actually leaves the bathroom clean every day—and he doesn't seem to have dirty clothes. He's like a ghost.

TRAN: Man, I think you have the perfect roommate!

MICHAEL: What about yours? What's he like?

TRAN: Well, he's the exact opposite of yours. We're a lot alike, and we're together a lot. I mean, we have two classes together and we're in the same fraternity, so we're really good friends.

MICHAEL: Sounds to me like you have the ideal roommate!

TRAN: Well, yes—and no. Mine is a disaster in the house. In the first place, he always leaves a mess in the kitchen; he doesn't wash the dishes or take out the trash. Plus, he throws his clothes all over the place. Not to mention how he leaves the bathroom . . .

MICHAEL: Come on, Eric—he sounds a lot like you. No wonder you get along so well!

Improving your conversation

So

So has many different uses. In the example conversation, it is used to begin a question that is not surprising and may have even been expected.

So how much do you want for the car? (You know I'm interested in buying it.)
So when are we leaving? (We both know we are going somewhere together.)

Another use of so is to mean extremely.

I can't wait to get there. I'm so excited.

To be like

Like asks for a description of a person, place, or thing.

What's his wife like? Is she nice? Yes, she's very nice.
What's your new house like? It's big, with four bedrooms and three baths.

To be like is also a slang (informal) expression that means to be thinking or telling your reaction.

She comes home late, and I'm like, "Where have you been?"
He told me I wasn't studying enough, and I was like, "What do you mean? I study for three hours every night!"
The teacher told me I failed the math test, and I was like, "Oh man, my mom's going to be upset."

Look like, smell like, and sound like express similarity of appearance, smell, and sound.

Mary looks (just/exactly) like her mother.
This perfume smells like gardenias.
When I talk to you on the phone, you sound like your dad.

These same combinations can also mean seem like, to indicate a guess about what is happening.

It looks like (it's going to) rain.
It smells like something's burning.
It sounds like you're very upset.

When things are similar, they are said to be, look, smell, or sound alike.

You guys are exactly alike—always getting into trouble.
The twins look alike.
These two roses smell (exactly) alike.
You and your brother don't sound (at all) alike.

Will

Will—usually in contraction form ('ll)—is often used to make an offer to do something.

I'll go to the store for you.
We'll wash the dishes.

The same contraction can be used to emphasize that an activity is habitual.

Sometimes when I'm alone I'll go for a long walk.

In the summer, he'll stay up late every night playing poker with his friends.

Well

Well indicates that what you plan to say next may need a little explanation.

Did you write this letter?

Well, yes, but I was upset at the time, and I really didn't mean everything I wrote.

How are you?

Well, I'm OK now, but I've had a terrible week.

Dude

Dude is an informal, friendly way of calling a male friend or acquaintance instead of using his name.

Dude, what time are we leaving tomorrow?

Basically

Basically indicates a summarized or generalized opinion.

What's your teacher like?

Well, basically, he's the worst teacher in the whole school.

Actually/the truth is

The terms actually and the truth is indicate that the speaker is telling the truth, even if it is surprising.

Do you like your new job?

Actually, yes—even though I work nine hours a day.

Another expression that means the same thing is as a matter of fact.

Are you moving?

As a matter of fact, I am!

Really

Really? is a way of asking if what was said was the truth.

I'm not going to study tonight.

Really? I thought you had a test tomorrow.

Really before an adjective means very.

This movie is really good, but I'm really tired, so I'm going to bed.

Hardly ever

Hardly ever means almost never.

You hardly ever call me anymore. Are you mad at me?

At least

At least indicates that a situation could be worse.

Ooh, it's so cold outside today! Well at least it isn't raining.

What about . . . ?

What about . . . ? is a way to ask the same question about a different topic.

Are you all going to the game? Yeah, Jack and I are going.

What about Joe? No, he can't go.

I mean

I mean precedes further explanation of the previous information.

She keeps her house really clean. I mean, she dusts and vacuums every day!

Other expressions that introduce further explanation include in other words and that is.

He studies twenty-four-seven. In other words, he's a serious student.

She's a real party animal. That is, she goes out every night.

In the first place

In the first place is used to present the first example of why you do or don't like something. Second/in the second place or plus can precede the next examples. A final example can be preceded by not to mention that.

We're not happy in the suburbs.

In the first place, it takes us almost two hours to get to work.

In the second place, when we get home, we're exhausted.

Plus, we spend so much on gas.

Not to mention that the kids are in day care for more than ten hours!

Then

Then can introduce a logical conclusion.

I've got my tickets, and my bags are packed.

Then you're all ready to go.

Come on

Come on is a way to say that someone is exaggerating a little bit.

I have to lose twenty pounds.

Come on, Alex, you're not that overweight!

It can also be used to ask for a reconsideration or change of mind.

I'm going to drive home.

Come on, dude, you've had too much to drink. Give me your keys!

Wonder

I wonder expresses an unanswered question or doubt. The subject-verb order is different from that of a question.

Where is Ellie?
Is Jon married?

I wonder where Ellie is.
I wonder if Jon's married.

No wonder indicates that something is obvious.

He's smart, energetic, well educated, and charming. No wonder you like him!

Quite the character

To be quite the character is to be unusual in some way.

She never stops talking but can always make you laugh.

Yeah, I hear she's quite the character.

He's really quiet and never talks to anybody, yet the girls all like him.

He must be quite the character.

Fraternity

A fraternity is an established social group of university men, who often live together in a frat house and mainly exist for social purposes. Fraternities are also known as Greeks, as they use Greek letters to form their names. Similar organizations exist for women and are called sororities.

Conversation: Running into a friend

NICOLE: Hi, Jen. What's up? I haven't seen you for ages.

JEN: Nicole! Fancy running into you here. Do you have time for a cup of coffee?

NICOLE: Sure. We really need to catch up. Do you work around here?

JEN: At the dress shop across the street. I'm a sales assistant for the time being, but I'm hoping they'll promote me to buyer after I have some experience on the floor.

NICOLE: Oh—I love that shop. Their clothes are so trendy and different from the run of the mill. You look fantastic—I'll bet their sales have gone up since you started working there.

JEN: Well—I try! The thing is, I enjoy the work, because I love the clothes, and I like helping people find what works for them. It's actually quite fulfilling.

NICOLE: Good for you. And I think the idea of becoming a buyer is great. Before you know it, you'll be working on your own designs. I remember how you used to dream of being a fashion designer.

JEN: Yeah, and I think this is a step in the right direction. Now, what are you up to? The last I heard, you were about to move across country. I hope you're back to stay!

NICOLE: As a matter of fact, I just got back a couple of months ago. I'm glad I went, because now I know I really want to be here. I'm working as a waitress right now but am hoping to get a teaching job. I've applied to most of the local school districts so have my fingers crossed I'll get something this fall.

JEN: What do you want to teach? I've heard there are openings for high school teachers in Howard County.

NICOLE: No way! I haven't even applied there. I'll do it as soon as I get home. Man, that'll be awesome if they need a biology teacher. Thanks for the tip! Which reminds me—waiting tables isn't all bad. On weekends I get pretty good tips. And banking on the info you just gave me, I think I'll follow you back to work and splurge on a new dress!

JEN: Great. I already have in mind some things for you to try on.

Later:

NICOLE: Wow. I love this one. I guess I'm getting ahead of myself, but I have a feeling this is just what I need for the interview with the principal.

JEN: And for the first day of school!

NICOLE: Thanks so much for your help. Now I'm really pumped! I'm so happy I ran into you today.

JEN: Me, too. Let's make sure we get together more often.

NICOLE: Yeah. I promise I'll keep in touch.

JEN: Take care, and let me know what happens. Bye for now.

NICOLE: Bye—and thanks again!

Improving your conversation

What's up?

What's up? is an informal way of asking people how they are. What are you up to? is a way to ask people what they have been doing lately.

Hey, Kim—what's up?
So, what are you up to these days?

Oh, not much. How are you?
Oh, just working, as usual. How about you?

Run into

Run into means to see someone by chance or in an unexpected place.

Fancy running into you here

Fancy running into you here means I didn't imagine I would see you. It is often said when you see people in places where you normally don't see them. Other expressions you could use in this situation are fancy meeting you here and what a coincidence.

For ages

For ages and in ages mean for a very long time.

How's Dan? I haven't seen him for ages. Yes, it's been a long time. He's fine.

Before you know it

Before you know it means very quickly.

Oh, I'm so tired of school.

Calm down. Before you know it, you'll be finished and wishing you were back in school again!

As soon as

As soon as indicates that something will happen at the same time that something else happens.

We'll eat as soon as your dad gets home.
I'll call you as soon as I get the information.

Used to

Used to has several uses.

To be used to (something) indicates a custom or habit.

At first it was difficult to live here, but now I am used to the cold weather.
I work the night shift, so I am used to staying up all night and sleeping during the day.

Used to (do) can indicate action that was once habitual but is no longer done, or a situation that was once true but no longer is.

She used to live next door to us.
He used to smoke.
I used to be married to him.

Used to (do) can also indicate an action that was done routinely in the past.

When we were little, we used to swim in the lake.
When he was a kid, he used to ride his bike to school.

This meaning can alternatively be expressed with would (always) or a past tense verb.

When we were little, we would always swim in the lake.
When we were little, we swam in the lake.
When he was a kid, he would always ride his bike to school.
When he was a kid, he rode his bike to school.

Try

Try on means to put clothing, shoes, or accessories on to see if they fit or if you like them.

I would never buy shoes without trying them on first.
Try this dress on. Let's see how it looks.

Try out means to use a car or other equipment to see how well you handle it or if you like it.

Your new camera looks awesome! Would you like to try it out?

Try to/try and indicate an effort to do something that may not be easy.

Try to be here before eight o'clock./Try and be here before eight o'clock.

Try + verb in -ing form (something) indicates a suggestion for solving a problem or problematical situation.

I can't get the door open. Try turning the key in the other direction.

I try is a way to express modesty after receiving a compliment.

You are a good cook! Thank you; I try.

Work for

Work for means to be employed by someone.

She works for the the city government.

It also means to be acceptable to or desirable for someone.

This is a pretty skirt, but it doesn't work for me—it's not my size.
Let's have lunch together next week. What day works for you?

There is/there are

There is is followed by a singular or non-count noun to indicate that it exists.

There is a stop sign on the corner.
There is milk in the refrigerator.
There is too much pollution here.

There are is followed by a plural noun to indicate that more than one person, place, thing, or abstract notion exists.

There are a lot of bikes on the road.
There are too many people in this class.

Wow

Wow is a common way to express surprise.

Here is your exam. Wow! I got an A.
This is where we'll be living for a while. Wow—it sure needs a lot of work!

I'll bet

I'll bet indicates sincere belief that what you are going to say is true, even though you have no proof.

What's Maria up to? I'll bet she's making a lot of money.

However, if you are replying to someone else's statement with I'll bet, this indicates that you do not believe it.

I hear Maria's making a lot of money. I'll bet.

No way

No way is another expression that can mean two opposite things: definitely no or that's good news.

Are you going to Claudia's party? No way! She hardly speaks to me.
We're going to the beach for a week. No way! That sounds like a lot of fun!

Work for

Work for can mean employed by.

My cousin works for the city government.

It can also mean to be convenient for someone.

Let's have lunch together next week. What day works for you?

This is a very pretty dress, but it doesn't work for me—it's not my size.

On the . . .

To be on the floor means to be working as a salesperson in a store.

I'll bet you're tired after being on the floor all day.

To be on the job means to be working on a project that requires physical labor.

We're installing the electricity in How long have you been on the job?
the new building up the street.

Trendy

Trendy is an adjective that describes the latest fashions.

It looks like long skirts are trendy again this year.

Run of the mill

Run of the mill is a way to describe something very ordinary or nondescript. If used before a noun, it has a hyphen between each word; if used without a noun, there are no hyphens.

My shoes are comfortable but not trendy. They are quite run of the mill.
This book is quite interesting. It's not just a run-of-the-mill romance novel.

Tip

A tip is an extra payment made to a server, taxi driver, beautician, barber, or anyone else working to provide a service.

The waiter gave us great service, so he got a good tip.

A tip can also be a helpful suggestion.

The teacher told us to answer the easy questions first. That was a good tip.

The thing is

The thing is introduces an explanation for a situation.

Why aren't you ready for school? The thing is, I can't find my backpack.
How does that guy keep his job? The thing is, he's a friend of the boss's sister.
He never does anything.

A step in the right direction

A step in the right direction refers to an action that will lead to success.

I'm so glad you've decided to go to college. That's definitely a step in the right direction.

Be about to

To be about to means to be going to do at that moment.

I can't talk anymore. We're about to leave for the airport.
Fasten your seat belt. The plane is about to take off.

Which reminds me

Which reminds me introduces new information that is remembered because of something that was just said. An alternative to this expression is speaking of which.

I'm about to go shopping for Halloween costumes for the kids—which reminds me—do you still have the witch hat you borrowed from me last year?
I heard that Brittany was in town. Speaking of which, did you know she was getting married?

Have one's fingers crossed

To have one's fingers crossed means to indicate a strong desire or hope that something happens.

I have my fingers crossed that we'll win the game tonight.

Pumped

To be pumped means to be very excited and ready for an occasion or event. An alternative expression is all fired up.

The whole team is really pumped about the game tomorrow. We're ready to win.

Bank on

To bank on means to rely on, count on, or trust certain information.

Do you think our candidate will win the election? You can bank on it. All the polls say he's ahead.

Splurge

To splurge means to spend more money than necessary on something, because you really want it.

She got a bonus at work, so she splurged on a first-class ticket.

Why don't we splurge and buy the beautiful sofa instead of the run-of-the-mill one?

Another expression that indicates spending a lot of money is go overboard.

It was their anniversary, so they went overboard and stayed at a five-star resort.

Get together

To get together means to meet.

They get together every week to discuss their research.

Making dates and appointments

Conversation A: Making an appointment with a doctor

RECEPTIONIST: Drs. Manning and Sharp. How can I help you?
LISA: Hello. My name is Lisa Peterson. I'd like to make an appointment to see Dr. Sharp, hopefully sometime next week.
RECEPTIONIST: And what is it you want to see him about?
LISA: I need a complete physical for a new job I'm about to take.
RECEPTIONIST: Do you have a form that has to be filled out?
LISA: Yes, I do—and it looks like I'll need a pretty thorough exam.
RECEPTIONIST: Can you scan it and email it to me? That way I'll know how much time to allot for your appointment.
LISA: Sure. Can you give me your email address?
RECEPTIONIST: It's on our website: maries@rhc.com.
LISA: Good. I'll send it to you right away. Will you call me back when you get it?
RECEPTIONIST: Right.

Later:

RECEPTIONIST: Hello, Lisa. This is Dr. Sharp's office. I see you're going to need an hour-long appointment, and Dr. Sharp won't be able to do that for at least another month. I could give you an appointment with Dr. Manning next Thursday, though, at 1 p.m. Would you like to take that?
LISA: Um . . . yes, that sounds fine. Is there anything I should do to prepare for the exam?
RECEPTIONIST: Yes. I know this will be difficult, but you mustn't eat or drink anything after midnight the night before. I wish I could give you an appointment earlier in the day, but we don't have any other openings.
LISA: OK. But if there is a cancellation earlier in the day, please let me know. I'd much rather come in early in the morning.
RECEPTIONIST: Of course.
LISA: Thanks very much. Good-bye.

Conversation B: Changing a lunch date

LISA: Hi, Maria. It's Lisa. Listen, I'm not going to be able to have lunch with you next Thursday. I have to have a physical for my new job, and it's on Thursday at one o'clock—and it's in Alexandria. I'm really sorry. Can we make it another day?

MARIA: No problem. How about Friday at 12:30?

LISA: Oh dear, I can't do that, either. Would Wednesday work for you?

MARIA: Look, we're going to have to make it the following week. We've both got too much on our plates right now. Let's say Thursday, the twenty-fourth, at one o'clock. OK?

LISA: Perfect. We'll have a lot to talk about by then!

Improving your conversation

In/on/at to indicate events

Events—dates, appointments, meetings, receptions, parties, concerts, classes, etc.—all have set days, times, and locations that are indicated by certain prepositions.

No, I won't.

Can indicates ability. The negative form of can is can't.

Present tense: She can cook like a pro. She can't sing, though.

Past tense: She could cook when she was very young. She couldn't sing then, either.

An alternative way to indicate ability is be able to.

She is able to cook.

She was able to cook when she was young.

She will be able to cook like a pro when she finishes culinary school.

Can also indicates permission.

Present tense: He can't go to the movies with us. (His mother said no.)

Past tense: He couldn't go to the movies with us.

Future: He won't be able to go to the movies with us.

May is another way to ask for and give permission.

May we sit here?

Yes, you may./No, you may not.

May can also indicate possibility. Alternative ways to indicate this are might and maybe + will.

It may rain tomorrow.

It might rain tomorrow.

Maybe it will rain tomorrow.

Could, in addition to being the past tense of can, also indicates a suggestion.

How can I impress my boss?

You could wear a suit and tie to work.

Could is also a polite way to ask permission.

Could I borrow a cup of sugar?

Of course, you can/may.

Should indicates direct or indirect advice.

What should I wear to the interview?
You should go home now.
He shouldn't be here.
Past tense: You should have gone home.

Ought to can be used to give direct or indirect advice. It is not normally used in a question or in negative form.

What should I wear? You ought to wear a suit.
He ought to come to work on time.
We ought to have been nicer to them.

Would is used with if to indicate how things could be different under different circumstances.

(I don't like to dance.)	I wish I liked to dance.
(She doesn't study enough.)	We wish she studied more.

I wish! indicates that it would please you if something said were really true, even though you believe that it isn't true.

You're the best student in the class.	I wish!
---------------------------------------	----------------

How about . . . ?

How about . . . ? is a way of making a suggestion.

I want to go shopping. Do you have these shoes in size six?	How about going with me this afternoon? No, but how about these? They're very similar.
--	---

Let's say

Let's say is a way of making a more forceful suggestion.

I want to go shopping. Can you pick me up at 5 p.m.?	Let's say you do your homework first. Let's say 5:30; I can't get there by 5.
---	--

Oh dear

Oh dear is an exclamation that indicates you wish something weren't true or hadn't happened.

Oh dear, I dropped my bag and my stuff is everywhere.
Oh dear, I said Friday and I meant Thursday. I'm so sorry.

Look

Look is an expression that indicates that you want the person you are speaking to to understand what you are going to say next.

You got here late!	Look , I said I was sorry.
--------------------	-----------------------------------

Listen

Saying listen indicates that you want the person you are speaking to to pay attention to what you are going to say next.

You won't believe what I just heard about Carrie.

Listen, I don't want to hear any more gossip!

Both

Both is used as a pronoun or adjective to refer to any two people, places, objects, or abstract notions.

I invited Todd and Carlos. I hope both of them can come.

We went to New York and Washington. Both are fascinating cities./They are both fascinating cities./Both cities are fascinating.

I couldn't decide which shoes to buy, so I bought both pairs.

Though

Though can be used to mean however—indicating that there is an alternative answer.

Are you a good baseball player?
Is he in the band?

No, I'm good at hockey, though.
No, he does play the guitar, though.

Have too much on one's plate

To have too much on one's plate is an expression that indicates that someone is very busy—probably because of an unusual project or happening.

Look—I'd like to help you out, but we just moved to a new house, I'm learning a new job, and I just have too much on my plate right now.

Right

Right indicates that you understand or agree with what was just said.

Am I supposed to wear a tie?

Right.

Yeah, right! is a sarcastic answer that indicates that what was said previously is ridiculous.

You're wearing a tie, of course.
I got all As last semester.

Yeah, right! [Of course not!]
Yeah, right! [I don't believe you.]

Perfect

Perfect indicates that you accept a suggestion or offer.

We can discuss this further at the meeting tomorrow.

Perfect.

Shall we meet in the cafeteria for lunch?

Perfect.

Of course

Of course indicates that what was said is agreed to or obvious.

Will you go over my homework with me?
Do we have to work tomorrow?

Of course.
Of course! It's not a holiday.

No problem

No problem can mean that a request is accepted.

Is it OK if I come in late tomorrow?
I have a doctor's appointment.

No problem.

No problem can also be used as a reply to an expression of thanks. An alternative expression with the same meaning is you're welcome.

Thanks so much for fixing my flat tire.
Excuse me, you dropped your wallet.

No problem.
Oh, thank you!

You're welcome.

Conversation: Looking for a new apartment

RECEPTIONIST: Good morning! How can I help you?

TAHA: I'd like to rent an apartment in this neighborhood and wonder if you can help me.

RECEPTIONIST: You need to talk to Salima—she's our go-to agent for apartment rentals. Here, I'll take you to her office.

SALIMA: Hello, I'm Salima. Have a seat and tell me what kind of apartment you're looking for. Is it just for you?

TAHA: Well, that depends on what's available. I'd really rather live alone, but if I don't see anything that works, I could share a bigger place with a friend of mine.

SALIMA: OK. First, tell me what you have in mind.

TAHA: The most important thing is the location. I want to be in the city, preferably in this neighborhood, so I can walk to the university and to the metro station. I don't have a car.

SALIMA: OK, then you don't mind if there's no parking space.

TAHA: Exactly. But I want a secure building. I also want it to have a living room, a dining room, one bedroom, and, of course, a modern kitchen and bathroom. I don't really need all the bells and whistles, but I would like to have a balcony.

SALIMA: And what is your budget? I mean, what monthly rent are you thinking about, including utilities?

TAHA: I'm hoping to find something for about $1000 a month.

SALIMA: Look, I can tell you right now there are no decent apartments in this area under $1,500 a month—and none of them have dining rooms or balconies. There are modern, secure buildings that are actually near the metro—but they're at least six miles outside of the city.

TAHA: There's no way I'm going to live way out there. Do you think you could find a two-bedroom place closer in for, say, $2,000 a month? Something I could share with my friend?

SALIMA: Let me do a little research this morning and see what I can find. I'm not going to tell you that it's impossible, but I can't promise anything, either. Give me a couple of hours to see what's out there. If I find anything worthwhile, we can go have a look this afternoon. In the meantime, I need you to fill out this form so I have your contact information. As a matter of fact, both you and your friend will have to fill out an application in order to be approved as tenants. I'm assuming you want a one-year lease. Is that right? Oh, one more thing: you don't have a pet, do you?

TAHA: Yes, I'm willing to sign a one-year lease, and no, I don't have a pet. And I'll make sure my friend gets rid of his dog. He can leave it with his family—they have a place in the country. I'd better go give him a heads-up right now.

SALIMA: Good. Be sure both of you bring your financial and credit information with you.

TAHA: Right. We'll see you at noon, then. Thank you very much.

SALIMA: See you later.

Need

There are several words that indicate that something is required. To need is used to require urgent attention or action to prevent damage.

I need a doctor. I'm really dizzy.

We need to rest. We've been working for six hours.

Flowers need water.

Need can also indicate a requirement dictated by someone else.

I need six more credits in order to graduate.

The children need to bring pencils and erasers to class.

To be a taxi driver, you need to have a special driver's license.

To have to can indicate a personal need or an obligation to someone else.

I have to get my car fixed.

He has to work on Saturdays.

You have to complete the prerequisites before you can take advanced courses.

She was speeding and has to pay a $100 fine.

To be required to indicates you have to do something that is imposed by some sort of authority.

The children are required to do their homework before watching television.

The cadets are required to wear their uniforms to class.

This warrant means you are required to allow the police to search your office.

A requirement is a standard imposed on someone by some sort of authority.

Ability to speak another language is a requirement for this position.

It's a requirement of the home owners' association that you keep your yard neat.

A prerequisite is proof of previous instruction or ability necessary for a certain job, course, or position.

This course is open to beginners. There are no prerequisites.

A master's degree in business is a prerequisite for this job.

Want

To want means to have a desire for something and indicates some belief that it will be attained.

We want to move to a better neighborhood. (We're saving our money.)

She wants to go to college. (She is trying to make good grades in high school.)

He wants an ice-cream cone. (He is going to the ice-cream store/ordering ice cream.)

Would like indicates a desire that may or may not be possible to satisfy.

We'd like a house with four bedrooms.

I'd like to go on a vacation.

He'd like to be able to visit his family at least once a year.

Mind

To have in mind means to have a good idea of the kind of thing you want.

Sure, I'll help you decorate your living room. What kind of look do you have in mind?

To have a mind to means to be strongly considering an action.

He stole money from me! I have a mind to report him.

To mind can mean to not be happy about something. This is the meaning used in the example conversation.

I don't mind going to the store. I'm happy to do it.

To mind can mean to take charge of a store or shop.

Thank you for minding the store while I had lunch.

To mind can also mean to babysit.

Could you mind the children while I go to the store?

To mind can also mean to pay attention to.

No, I won't babysit for your children, because they won't mind me.

Don't mind her—she doesn't know what she's talking about.

To make up your mind means to decide.

Do you want pizza or pasta? Make up your mind!

I can't make up my mind between the SUV and the van.

To change your mind means to have a different idea or opinion than before.

I was going to paint the dining room red, but I changed my mind and painted it blue.

Never mind means to disregard what was said. Forget it is another way of expressing this.

What did you say?

Never mind—it wasn't important.

Mind is also a noun that refers to the brain.

At the age of ninety-five, her body is weak, but her mind is still perfect.

A mind reader is someone who knows what someone else is thinking.

How was I supposed to know you had a headache? I'm not a mind reader.

There is and there are

There is indicates that something exists, and is followed by a singular noun.

There is a gas station up ahead.

There are indicates that more than one thing exists, and is followed by a plural noun.

There are several gas stations about three miles down the road.

Words that indicate that nothing exists—such as zero, no, and not any—are followed by a plural noun.

We have exactly zero applications for the position.

There are no heart specialists in this area.

She doesn't have any brothers or sisters.

Likewise, the pronoun that takes the place of these words, none, is followed by a plural verb.

We have three teachers to contact, but none (of them) are available this week.

Have a look

To have a look means to make a short investigation.

I lost my earring yesterday. Do you think it might be at your house?

I'll have a look and see if I can find it.

Get rid of

To get rid of means to make sure to no longer have something.

The car used too much gas, so we got rid of it. We sold it last week.

You should get rid of that suit. It doesn't look good on you.

Preferably

Preferably indicates someone's first choice.

I'd like to buy a new car, preferably one that doesn't use much gas.

Go-to Go-to is an expression used as an adjective to describe a person, place, or object that people depend on or "go to first" for what they need.

You need a handyman? Call Ron—he's my go-to person for everything that goes wrong in the house.

I love Cherrydale Hardware. It's my go-to store for supplies.

Worthwhile

Worthwhile describes something that has value in terms of time, money, experience, or purpose.

The translation course is intensive, but it is really worthwhile.

Cancer research is a worthwhile cause.

Out there

Out there is an expression that refers to the real world, at the present time.

Go out and have fun! There are a lot of nice people out there.

I'm always careful walking at night. You never know what dangers are out there.

Utilities

Utilities include the services necessary for the functioning of a house or apartment, including those for water and sewage, heating, air-conditioning, electricity, and sometimes trash collection.

Some apartment buildings include the cost of utilities in the monthly rent, and some don't.

All the bells and whistles

The expression all the bells and whistles refers to the most modern, up-to-date—usually expensive—features of homes and other buildings that are either new or recently remodeled.

The apartment has all the bells and whistles—a soaking tub with jets, multiple showerheads, marble countertops and designer cabinets in the kitchen, energy-efficient appliances, and many more exclusive features.

Country

Country can refer to a nation.

What country are you from? I'm from Colombia.

Country can also refer to the areas that are distant from cities, often where there are farms.

We like to go to the country on weekends, to get some peace and quiet.

A heads-up

A heads-up is a warning that something is going to happen, so that the other person will be ready.

Hey, Mom—I'm bringing a friend home for dinner and wanted to give you a heads-up.

Say

Say can introduce an example of a possibility.

I'm sure you can get someone to pick you up. Why don't you ask, say, Rosita or Laura?
Why don't you paint this room a brighter color, say, yellow or green?

In the meantime

In the meantime indicates a period of time between two events. Another word with the same meaning is meanwhile.

It will be a big help if you go to the store and get what we need for dinner. In the meantime, I'll set the table.
Joey had to go away for six months. In the meantime, Julie went to classes and learned to cook.

One more thing

One more thing is an expression used at the end of a series of remarks. It could be something important that you almost forgot to say or a question that you almost forgot to ask.

OK, now, go to school. Mind the teacher, try to finish all your work, and don't pick fights with the other kids. One more thing: don't forget to thank the teacher for helping you with your math!
So, doctor, I'll take the medicine you gave me and go to physical therapy. One more thing—when do you think I'll be able to go back to work?

Conversation: Helping a classmate

JIM: Hey, buddy, can I ask you a favor?

ALI: Sure—what can I do for you?

JIM: I wonder if you'd be willing to lend me your biology notes. I missed a couple of classes when I was sick, and now I'm totally lost.

ALI: OK. I'll send you a copy of my notes from last week, and then come to your place and go over the lessons with you. I'm acing biology this semester, so I'm sure I can get you back on track.

Later:

JIM: Oh, man, that is a load off my shoulders. I can't thank you enough.

ALI: Glad to help. As a matter of fact, I have a favor to ask of you.

JIM: Oh yeah? Don't tell me you need more advice about your girlfriend!

ALI: Well, not exactly. It's that her sister is coming up for the weekend, and I need to find her a date. Any chance you'd go out with her on Saturday night? We'd all four go to the theater and then out to eat.

JIM: Look, I already agreed to go to the movies with Ben. But how about if I invite her to go to the movies with us instead? Of course, afterward we'd grab a bite to eat, but it won't be anything fancy.

ALI: That sounds great to me. Let me see what Jessica thinks about it, and I'll get back to you ASAP.

JIM: Good. And by the way, thanks again for the help with biology. I think I'm on top of it now.

ALI: No problem. Don't hesitate to call me if you have any questions.

JIM: Thanks, buddy. See you later.

Improving your conversation

Making requests

A direct command is the strongest way to request urgent attention.

Take her to the hospital!

Let us rest!

Call the police!

Help me!

Can you can also be used to request attention to a need.

Can you get me to a hospital right away?

Can you call the police?

Can you help me?

A direct command for assistance in attaining something you want (rather than something you need) is considered rude. Can you is also a little abrupt.

Will you is the most direct way to request what you want and should always be preceded or followed by please.

Will you please take me to the airport?

Please, will you bring me a glass of water?

Could you (please) is a more polite way to request what you want.

Could you babysit for my daughter this weekend?

Could you tell us how to get to Main Street from here?

Would you (please) is an even more polite way to request what you want.

Would you (be able to) mow the lawn for me this weekend?

Would you take me to the store this afternoon?

Would you mind + -ing is the most formal way to ask someone to do something for you.

Would you mind helping me with these packages?

Would you mind telling us how to get to the main highway?

Would you mind if + subjunctive is a very polite way to ask permission to do something.

Would you mind if I borrowed your car? No, you can use it for a couple of hours.

Would you mind if we stayed one more night?

To mind can mean not be happy about.

Do you mind if I use your pen?

No, I don't mind.

Do you mind if I borrow your car?

Yes, I do mind! You may not borrow it.

A favor is something that someone does to help someone else out.

Will you do me a favor?

Of course. What do you need?

Would you mind if I asked you a favor?

Of course not. What can I do for you?

Offering assistance

Several expressions are used to offer a favor or assistance.

I'll + verb indicates that you are taking action in an emergency. An alternative way to express this is to use the present progressive tense.

I'll take you to the hospital.

A more forceful way to express this is to use the present progressive tense.

I'm calling the police.

Would you like to + basic verb or would you like me to + basic verb can be used when what the person needs is obvious but not urgent.

I see you're tired. Would you like to sit down?

I see you need a ride. Would you like me to take you home?

Let me know if I can help you or I'll be glad to help you are formal expressions used by receptionists, secretaries, salesclerks, or other people whose jobs involve providing services to the public.

The doctor will be with you shortly. In the meantime, let me know if I can help you.
Feel free to look through our merchandise, and if you see anything you like or have any questions, I'll be glad to help you.

Can I help you? is a way to offer assistance to a stranger in need. An alternative expression is Let me help you.

You look lost. Can I help you?
You took quite a fall. Let me help you get up.

How can I help you? is a way to offer assistance to someone who seems to want something. An alternative expression is What can I do for you?

I'm the doctor's receptionist. How can I help you?
I see you're waiting for a salesperson. What can I do for you?

Is there any way I can help you? indicates a sincere offer of help to someone you know well. Alternative expressions are Is there anything I can do for you?/Is there anything I can do to help?

Mom, I know you're not feeling well. Is there any way I can help you?
So you're moving to your new house next week! Is there anything I can do to help?

Oh yeah

The expression oh yeah can have different meanings, depending on the intonation. In the example conversation, with ascending intonation (from low to high), it affirms interest in what was just said. Following is another example:

I'm leaving for San Francisco tomorrow morning. Oh yeah? What are you going to do there?
How long are you staying?

When oh yeah has descending intonation (from high to low), it affirms previous knowledge of what was just said.

C'mon, let's eat lunch. I thought you were having lunch with Tim. Oh yeah, I forgot about that.

It's (just) that . . .

It's (just) that . . . is an expression that precedes an explanation of something just mentioned or questioned. It indicates that the speaker expects the hearer to understand and accept the explanation.

Why didn't you turn your paper in on time? I'm sorry, professor. It's that I had two exams and three other papers due last week.

Another way to express this is the thing is, . . .

Why don't you ever wash your dishes? The thing is, I always seem to be in a hurry to go somewhere.

A date is an appointment with someone—often for the prospect of a romantic connection—for a social occasion.

I'd really like to go to dinner with you on Friday, Rita, but I have a date with that new guy at work. He invited me to go to the movies with him.

Totally

Totally means completely, 100 percent, very.

Oh, the party was totally awesome.
We were totally confused by his explanation.

Be willing

To be willing means to accept participation in an activity.

Are you willing to pick me up at the airport? Sure, what time does your plane land?
He can move to Los Angeles if he wants to, but I'm not willing to quit my job and go with him.

Back on track

To be back on track means to be back to normal after a difficult period.

Tran missed three practices after he sprained his ankle, but he's been doing extra training, and now he's back on track with the rest of the team.
The divorce was hard, but Phil is now getting his life back on track.

On top of it

To be on top of it means to fully understand something or to be able to handle something.

The math course is hard, but I think he's on top of it.
There was a lot to learn in my new job, but now I'm on top of it.

A load off my shoulders/mind

A load off my shoulders/mind is a big relief from responsibility or worry.

When Jan offered to take care of my mother, it was a huge load off my shoulders.
The other driver admitted that the accident was his fault, and his insurance company paid for my car repairs. That sure was a load off my mind.

Miss

To miss can mean to not be able to attend an event or participate in normal activities.

I'm sorry I missed your party. I was out of town. Yeah, and you missed the chance to meet my cousin from St. Louis.

He missed a week of work when he was sick.
You played the wrong card. Now you have to miss your turn.

Miss can also mean to arrive too late for a form of public transportation.

We got stuck in traffic and missed our plane. Now we have to reschedule.

Miss can also mean to feel nostalgic or sad about a person you haven't seen, a place you haven't been to, or an activity you haven't participated in for a while.

I miss you, I miss Arlington, and I miss hanging out with you guys.

Miss can also mean failure to answer a question correctly on a test or to connect with a ball (or other object) in a game.

She missed six questions on the test and failed it.
You'd better get your eyes checked—you missed the ball three times!

Go and come

To go means to move from here or there to another place.

I'm going to the airport tonight.
When are you going to Colorado?

To come can mean to move from there to here.

(I am at work now.) I'm coming to work early tomorrow.
(I am in Colorado.) When are you coming to Colorado?

To come can also mean to move from here to there—when the person you are talking to is expected to be there.

(I am at work now; you are at home.) I'm coming home early this afternoon.
(I am in Virginia; you are in Colorado.) I'm coming to Colorado in August.
(We are both at the office.) I hope you can come to the party at my house next week.

To go over can emphasize that the movement from here to there or to another place is short.

Go over to your neighbor's house and see if she is at home.

To go over can also mean to read or review something in order to understand or remember it better.

I'm going to go over my notes tonight. We have a big test tomorrow.

To come over emphasizes that the movement toward you or toward the person you are speaking to is short.

I'm a little scared. Can you come over?
Her friends came over yesterday and stayed all afternoon.

Come on over is an informal invitation that emphasizes that the distance is really short.

I hear a lot of noise coming from your house! Come on over and join the party!

To go ahead means to continue with one's plans.

I'm ready to leave.

We're going to see that horror movie.

Then go ahead!

Go ahead. But don't say I didn't warn you.

To go ahead and + basic verb means to encourage someone to do something he or she may be hesitating about.

I'm not sure about this car.

Go ahead and buy it. It's a good deal.

To go ahead and do something is also a way of saying that you are going to do it right away.

Will you send me more information about your products?

OK, I'll go ahead and e-mail you our brochure.

I'm going to go ahead and make the reservation for seven o'clock.

Ace

To ace means to get a very good grade with little effort.

I didn't know he was so smart. He's acing trigonometry.

Fancy

Fancy is used to describe something elegant, possibly with intricate details.

She wore a very fancy dress with lots of ruffles and bows.

It was a fancy party. There were flowers and candles everywhere, and there was a seven-course, sit-down dinner for more than a hundred guests.

Any chance . . . ?

Any chance . . . ? is used to ask informally if something is possible or true.

Any chance you have a lawn mower I could borrow?

Any chance we could get together for a cup of coffee?

How about if . . . ?

The expression how about if . . . ? offers a suggestion for action by one or more people.

We have a long weekend coming up. How about if we all go to the beach?

I know you don't have enough money to buy the car. How about if I lend it to you?

I'll get back to you

I'll get back to you is a promise to find information for someone and contact him or her as soon as you have it.

I don't know how much the real estate tax on this house is, but I'll find out and get back to you right away.

ASAP

ASAP means as soon as possible.

Call me ASAP. I have to make up my mind tonight, and I need your advice.

Instead

Instead indicates a replacement for something else. It is placed after the word that indicates the replacement.

We thought about going to the beach, but went to the mountains instead.

Instead of is used before the replaced alternative.

He bought a truck instead of a car.

We went to the mountains instead of going to the beach.

Instead of going to the beach, we went to the mountains.

By the way

By the way introduces a new topic or a change in subject in the middle of a conversation.

Yes, I really like my new job. By the way, have you heard from Kevin?

Sophia said she would take care of the dog while we're away. By the way, are you still willing to water the plants?

Don't hesitate

Don't hesitate is a way to indicate your willingness to be available for someone.

If you have any questions about this contract, don't hesitate to call me.

See you later

Conversation: Advice to a friend

ZOYA: Hi, Katie—I'm calling you to cry on your shoulder. Do you mind if I come over? I really need to talk to you.

KEISHA: Of course I don't mind; come over. I'll make a pot of tea. Pat, what's the matter?

ZOYA: It's just that everything is wrong with my life. In the first place, there are so many problems at work. My boss is really out to get me. He's on my case for every little thing. Lately I can't do anything that pleases him. Plus, he makes me so nervous that I'm beginning to make unnecessary mistakes.

KEISHA: So, what's the reason for all that?

ZOYA: It's probably because he has problems at home. But that doesn't give him the right to take it all out on me, does it?

KEISHA: It's just the opposite. It's at work where he ought to seek a little peace so he can work out his personal problems at home. At least that's what I think.

ZOYA: I have the impression that nobody is really happy. The situation at my house doesn't exactly cheer me up either. You know what? Those two guys I share the house with don't have a clue about how to keep it clean. They don't lift a finger to help me. Last night I spent two hours cleaning the kitchen while they pigged out on pizza and watched TV. I'm sick and tired of their behavior. But that's not the worst! As if that weren't enough, Brad refuses to talk to me. Like out of the blue he's decided he wants his space. I really feel like throwing in the towel.

KEISHA: Calm down, Zoya, and let's look at one thing at a time. I don't think things are as bad as they seem right now. For a start, why don't we make a list of the positive things in your life? That way, you'll realize what your strengths are. Then we'll make a plan to begin changing the things that aren't working for you. You shouldn't let yourself get depressed.

ZOYA: Thanks, Keisha. You know, I already feel much better. You really know how to cheer me up.

KEISHA: I care about you. After all, you are my best friend—and have been from the get-go. I know I can count on you for good advice from time to time.

Improving your conversation

In the first place

In the first place is an expression that precedes the first point or argument you present when trying to convince someone of something.

I don't want to live in the southern part of the county. In the first place, the schools are not very good there.

For a start

For a start is an expression that precedes the first suggestion related to a plan.

We both want to buy a new house, but for a start, we need to see if we have enough money.

Alternatives to this expression are for starters and to begin with.

I will consider your marriage proposal, but for starters, we need to work out some of our problems.

Let's talk about our plans for the new house. To begin with, we need to decide exactly what we want.

Plus

Plus introduces a second, third, or further point in a positive or negative statement.

I loved that movie. It was a western; Clint Eastwood was in it; plus, it lasted three hours.

I hated that movie. It was a western; Clint Eastwood was in it; plus, it lasted three hours.

In addition

In addition introduces a second, third, or further point in a positive statement.

The house has three bedrooms, three bathrooms, and a modern kitchen. In addition, there is a big backyard with a swimming pool.

Besides

Besides explains a final reason for someone's opinion or decision.

I don't want to buy the house; we need at least four bedrooms, and my wife doesn't like the kitchen. Besides, a swimming pool is too expensive to maintain.

As if that weren't enough

As if that weren't enough introduces a final point at the end of a series of positive or negative arguments.

It was a terrible date. He arrived late. He was rude to my parents. And as if that weren't enough, he was in a bad mood the whole evening.

At least

At least indicates a minimum possible amount.

You have at least $100 in your pocket (possibly more).

He has at least three cars!

At least can introduce a comment intended to show that something is good, in spite of other negative information.

It's cold and rainy, but at least I have my umbrella.

After all

After all introduces a reason or a justification of what was just said.

Don't expect him to behave like an adult. After all, he's only ten years old.
I didn't do my best at work today, but after all, I was sick.

Cry on someone's shoulder

To cry on someone's shoulder means to tell someone that you need sympathy and support.

I just got fired from my job. Will you let me cry on your shoulder tonight?

Matter

To matter means to be important.

You really matter to me a lot.
I'm sorry I hurt your feelings.

It doesn't matter. (It's not important.) I forgive you.

To be the matter indicates what is wrong or what is upsetting someone.

You've been crying. What's the matter?

I just heard that my brother is sick.

Do you know what's the matter with him?

Just the opposite

To be just the opposite indicates that the truth is very different from what was just said.

You must be really excited about your promotion!

It's just the opposite! They're transferring me to another city, and I don't want to go.

Out to get

To be out to get someone means to want to hurt or make trouble for that person.

The president of the club refused to listen to any of our suggestions. I think he is really out to get us.

On someone's case

To be on someone's case means to constantly criticize or scold someone.

My dad's always on my case about my long hair. He really wants me to cut it.

Take it all out on

To take it all out on someone means to build up anger and frustration over a problem and then show that anger toward a person unrelated to the problem.

I know you're disappointed that you didn't get better grades at school, but don't take it out on your little sister!

Work out

To work out a problem is to solve it.

We're not going to get married until we can work out our problems.

To work out can also mean to be satisfactory.

The new arrangement of desks at the office is working out very well. Everybody likes it. Our relationship isn't working out. It's better that we not see each other anymore.

To work out can also mean to exercise.

You look fantastic—I can tell you've been working out.

Not have a clue

To not have a clue means to not know what is happening or what others are thinking.

Do you think Ray has any acting talent? To be honest with you, I don't think he has a clue about what he's supposed to be doing.

Not lift a finger

To not lift a finger means to not do anything to help or contribute.

She is so spoiled. She doesn't lift a finger to help her parents with the housework.

Spend

To spend means to use money or time.

Oh my gosh! I just spent $200 on groceries.
I wish you wouldn't spend so much time playing video games.

Pig out

To pig out means to eat too much.

Oh, I really pigged out on that cake. It was so delicious.

Sick and tired

To be sick and tired means to no longer tolerate something.

Out of the blue

To be out of the blue means to appear or happen with no warning.

So I'm driving down the turnpike when out of the blue I get a call from Freddie!

Want one's space

To want one's space is a delicate way of saying you want to end a romantic relationship.

Elizabeth, we've been arguing a lot lately, and I'm getting uncomfortable with it. I really feel like I want my space for a while, so I can think things over.

Throw in the towel

To throw in the towel means to stop trying to do something. An alternative expression is to give up.

Hey, Niko, how are your tennis lessons going?

I have to quit school; it's just too hard.

Oh, I threw in the towel a couple of months ago. I just didn't have enough time to practice.

You can't give up now! You only have a couple of semesters left.

Work for

To be working for someone can mean to be employed by that person.

I'm still going to school, but I'm working for my dad this summer.

It can also indicate that a certain strategy or program is suitable for someone.

This new diet just isn't working for me. I've actually gained weight!

Teaching at the public school really works for her, because she has the same schedule as her children.

Cheer someone up

To cheer someone up means to make someone feel happier.

She was feeling lonely, so we went over and cheered her up.

Count on

To count on someone means to expect that that person will support you when necessary. Alternative expressions are to depend on someone and to rely on someone.

We can always count on Bob to make us laugh.

She doesn't worry about spending money; she knows she can depend on her mother to pay her bills.

You're always late! I can't rely on you when I need you.

To be there for someone means to support someone whenever necessary.

I count on Ann. She is always there for me.

He's a great dad, always there for his kids.

Do you mind . . . ?

Do you mind . . . ? is a way of asking someone's permission to do something.

Do you mind if I sit here?

Do you mind if I smoke?

No, of course not. (You may sit there.)

Actually, I do. Smoke really bothers me.

Let's

Let's is a way of suggesting an activity for you and one or more other people.

Let's eat Chinese tonight.

Let's not argue about it.

Why don't . . . ?

Why don't . . . ? is another way of suggesting an activity to one or more people. This may or may not include you.

Why don't you study Japanese?
Why don't we invite the neighbors over?

Strengths

Strengths are the positive traits of a person. The negative traits are called weaknesses.

Often in a job interview, they ask you what your strengths and weaknesses are. It's a good idea to emphasize your strengths.

So

So has a number of uses. So many emphasizes that there are a lot.

She has so many friends on Facebook, she can't keep in touch with them all.

So + adjective means very.

He is so funny—he makes everybody laugh.

So can indicate—or ask for—a conclusion as a response to new information.

Talking about future events

Conversation A: Scheduled events

RAJ: What time does the movie start?

INES: It starts at 7:30, and ends at 9:45.

RAJ: Good. We can go on the bus, and get back home before it's too dark. Is there a bus stop near your house?

INES: Yes. It stops on the corner every fifteen minutes.

RAJ: Perfect. I'm looking forward to seeing this movie.

Conversation B: Plans for the very near future

JENNY: What are you doing tomorrow?

PAULA: I'm going to the beach with my family for a week. We're leaving early—at 6 a.m.

JENNY: Oh, nice! So I guess you're planning to go to bed early tonight.

PAULA: Yeah, I'm gonna pack my bag and try to hit the sack by nine o'clock.

JENNY: Good luck with that! What are you taking?

PAULA: I always pack light for the beach—a bathing suit, a couple of pairs of shorts, some T-shirts, a hat, and lots of sunscreen. How about you? What are you doing next week?

JENNY: I'm going to stay home and catch up on some unfinished projects.

PAULA: Like what?

JENNY: Oh, I have a long list! First I'm going to clean up my office, pay bills, write letters, and take care of a bunch of paperwork. Then I'm going to redecorate my bedroom—paint the walls and get new curtains.

PAULA: Wow. What color are you going to paint it?

JENNY: It's a very light blue. I've already picked it out and bought the paint.

PAULA: Cool.

Conversation C: Long-term plans

EMMA: What do you think you'll do when you finish college?

KIM: Oh, I'll probably stay in the city and look for work here. Then I'll go back home on holidays.

EMMA: I love that idea, but I'll probably go closer to home to get a job. I like being close to my family and old friends. Still, life in the big city is certainly tempting!

KIM: Well, maybe you could find a job in a big city closer to home.

EMMA: Yeah, that would be a good happy medium.

KIM: On the other hand, since you like to travel, you could possibly get a job in another country—do something exotic.

EMMA: You're right. I might get really bored just doing the same old thing. I'd learn a lot overseas—even pick up another language. It's definitely something to think about.

KIM: Well, I guess we don't have to decide now, since we're still in our freshman year!

Conversation D: Predictions for the more distant future

TEACHER: What will the world be like fifty years from now?

ANDY: Just think! People will be living on Mars.

EMILY: I'll bet cars will be replaced by little helicopters, so you'll be able to fly ahead in traffic.

HOLLY: There won't be any more wars.

JULIE: Women will make more money than men.

STACEY: No way! Women will stay home and the men will do all the work.

JOE: There will be a better form of government.

ZACK: People will have forgotten how to talk and will only communicate electronically.

HEATHER: There won't be any disease, and people will live to be 150 years old.

COURTNEY: That will be horrible. It will be so crowded!

ANDY: That's why people will be living on Mars!

Improving your conversation

No one can say for sure what will happen in the future, yet we often talk about it. Future events can be described in several different ways, depending on how probable it is that they will happen.

Scheduled events

The present tense is used to talk about the future. It is used to give the time of scheduled events (99 percent probability).

The flight leaves at four o'clock this afternoon.

The movie starts at five o'clock, so don't be late.

The present tense is also used to tell what normally happens and is expected to be the same in the future (99 percent probability).

The stores open at ten o'clock tomorrow morning.

The children go back to school in September.

Class ends at 3:15.

The train stops near our building every hour.

I'll bet

The present tense is used after the expression I'll bet, meaning I'm pretty sure it will happen.

I'll bet she wins the election.
I'll bet he calls me as soon as he gets home.

On the other hand, when used alone as an answer to someone's statement, I'll bet! means 'I'm pretty sure it won't happen.

This lottery ticket is going to win!
-I'll bet!
She's moving to Europe.
-I'll bet!

Going to

To be going to is used to indicate events planned for the near future (95 percent probability).

We're going to move to our new house next month.
They're going to get married in June.

In informal conversation, going to is often pronounced "gonna."

I'm gonna go see my grandmother this afternoon.

The present progressive (basic verb + -ing) can be used as an alternative to going to (95 percent probability).

We're moving to our new house next month.
They're getting married in June.
We're planning to go to the game tomorrow.
I'll be doing homework after school.

Will probably

Will probably + basic verb is used to indicate about a 75 percent probability of happening.

She'll probably be late.
We'll probably leave early.

Probably won't + basic verb is used to indicate about a 25 percent probability of happening.

He probably won't come with me.
You probably won't like this movie.

May/might

May or might + basic verb can be used to express about a 50 percent possibility of something happening.

He may be late, because he has to work until 6.
She might be late, too.
I might come over tomorrow. It depends on what time I get home.

Maybe

Maybe also expresses about a 50 percent possibility of something happening. Unlike may and might, it is placed before the subject.

Maybe they'll be late.
Maybe I'll come over tomorrow.

Will

Will + basic verb is tricky, as it can indicate both very high and very low probability. It is used to make a promise.

I'll be here at six tomorrow morning.
We'll call you as soon as we arrive.

It is also used to predict the more distant future.

My baby will be a doctor when he grows up.
You will get married and have a bunch of children.

Won't

Won't + basic verb indicates a very low probability that something will happen.

He won't be at the wedding.
We won't be able to see you in such a big crowd.

Hit the sack

Hit the sack is a very informal way to say to go to bed and sleep.

Man, I was exhausted last night. I hit the sack as soon as I got home.

Pack light

To pack light means to prepare only a very small suitcase or carry-on for traveling.

Be sure to pack light, because we'll have to carry our bags part of the way.

Catch up on

To catch up on means to do or learn something that you didn't do earlier.

When we're at the beach, I plan to catch up on some important reading.

Take care of

To take care of can mean to perform a task.

I was going to call a plumber, but my husband said he would take care of it.
Will you mow the lawn for me? Sure, I'll take care of it.

Take care of can also mean to attend to a child or other person needing supervision.

They're looking for someone to take care of her ninety-year-old mother during the day.

Take care of can also mean pay a bill or cover the cost of a purchase.

When my mom lost her job, my brother and I took care of her medical bills.

Pick up

To pick up means to grasp something that is on a lower surface.

I broke the glass and had to pick up all the pieces.

It can also mean to lift.

This box is too heavy. We can't pick it up.

Pick up can also mean to meet and give a ride to someone.

You can go with us. We'll be glad to pick you up.

To pick up can also mean to learn easily.

I don't think you can pick up Italian just by going to Venice on a vacation.
Of course, you will pick up a few useful phrases.

Happy medium

To reach a happy medium means to agree by accepting some parts of one argument and some parts of the opposing argument.

His style was modern, and hers was traditional. They reached a happy medium by buying an old house and putting in modern furniture.

A verb with the same meaning is to compromise.

The only way to keep everybody happy is to compromise.

A bunch of

A (whole) bunch of means a lot of. Alternative expressions include quite a few and a number of.

A whole bunch of friends are coming over tonight.

She has quite a few admirers.

There are still a number of tickets available.

The same old thing

The same old thing is a way to indicate that activities are routine.

What are you up to these days?

Oh, you know, the same old thing—working, taking care of the kids, going to school at night.

On the other hand

On the other hand is an expression that introduces an argument that is contrary to—or opposite to—a previously mentioned argument.

Well, we could use our savings to buy the house. On the other hand, we could use the money to visit your family in Ethiopia.

Since

Since can mean because, usually indicating that something is convenient.

I don't have an appointment for a haircut, but since I was in the neighborhood, I stopped by to see if you had time for me.

I was going to go home early today, but since you're here, I'll do your hair.

Since can also indicate the beginning of a time period.

She's been studying English since last September.

I've been waiting for you since four o'clock.

Still

Still has several meanings. In the example conversations, it introduces information that the speaker feels is contrary to the previous information, indicating a dilemma.

I'd love to buy the house. Still, it's important to go visit my family.

Overseas/abroad

Overseas refers to places on the other side of the ocean. Abroad refers to all countries except the one you are in.

We lived overseas for a number of years.

Many college students have the opportunity to study abroad.

Freshman

Freshman refers to a student in the first year of high school or college. It can also be another name for the first year. Second-year students are called sophomores, third-year students are juniors, and fourth-year students are seniors.

She may look like a freshman, but actually she's in her senior year.

This is the biggest freshman class we've ever had.

Senior (citizen) can also refer to a person who is sixty years old or more.

He's a senior in high school, and his grandmother is a senior.

Just think

Just think is an expression that introduces a fantasy or real plan the speaker is excited about.

Just think! We could get married and have children.

Just think! This time tomorrow we'll be in Rome!

Good luck with that

Good luck with that is an expression indicating that the speaker doesn't think the previous statement is very likely to happen.

They told me I'd win $500 if I wrote the best essay.

Good luck with that. They told the same thing to all the elementary school students in the whole city.

No way

No way indicates that something is impossible, unbelievable—or even wonderful.

Are you going to major in chemistry?

No way! There's no way I'm going to spend four years working in a laboratory.

John and Mary are getting married next month.

No way! They were fighting the last time I saw them.

I'm going to Denmark for two weeks.

No way! Lucky you!

Making a case or arguing a point

Conversation: Selecting a company officer

BOSS: I've called you here to talk about the selection of a new director for the Customer Service Department. As you know, so far there are only two candidates, Martha Francis and Juliette Welch. First, I'd like to hear your comments, both pro and con, about Martha's qualifications for this position.

IVANA: Well, I think Martha is the perfect person for this position. She's been with the company for twenty years, so she knows the business inside out. She's conservative and serious; plus she gets along with everybody.

APRIL: Yikes! In my opinion, if she becomes director, nothing will change. I mean, we wouldn't see anything new—just the opposite—we'd keep on implementing the same programs as always.

KATIE: She isn't known for thinking outside the box. What's more, we'd start to see our current customer base fall off, simply because our competitors have enthusiastic new people and innovative programs. I'm just sayin' . . .

TIM: I have to agree with April and Katie on this one. In the first place, Martha is too conservative; plus she'd hardly inspire any enthusiasm among the employees.

BOSS: Anybody else want to put their two cents in? OK. Then let's talk about Juliette. What do you guys think?

IVANA: Look, if Juliette gets this job, it will be a total disaster for the company. In the first place, her fancy degree isn't worth squat because she has zero experience. Besides, we don't even know her very well. Good grief, she's only been here since March, and to top it all off, we all know that she was fired from her last job.

TIM: Really, I've heard that her coworkers think she's a bit uppity, like she thinks she's the queen of the office. She's not exactly popular with the other employees. I don't think they'd be happy with her as the boss.

STAN: Well, since I put her name up, I have to say that I see her as a very bright and competent person. Still, I recognize that she lacks experience. And now that you tell me that her personality could cause friction among the employees, then I'll go along with your decision in this case.

BOSS: Obviously, we haven't found the ideal person to handle this job. We may have to look outside the company, which I don't particularly want to do. We'll meet here tomorrow at the same time. I'll expect your suggestions—and they'd better be more promising!

Improving your conversation

Pros and cons

Pro can be used as a shortened form of professional—in this case meaning expert.

You painted the walls yourself? Man, you're a real pro!

Pro can refer to the positive characteristics or positions in an argument. Con refers to the negative ones.

This issue has both pros and cons.

On the pro side, he's a hard worker.

On the con side, he often comes to work late.

In the first place/plus/in addition

To begin a series of arguments that are intended to convince someone to agree with your pro (positive) argument, use in the first place. Subsequent arguments are introduced by in the second place, in addition (more formal), furthermore (more formal), what's more, plus, and—to introduce the last argument—finally. For the frosting on the cake can be used instead of finally to indicate that the last argument mentioned is the strongest one of all. As if that weren't enough and to top it all off are alternative expressions with the same function.

Our lake district is a wonderful place for a vacation. In the first place, it's easily reached by car, and there is plenty of free parking for all visitors. In the second place, there are luxury hotels, with all the bells and whistles, as well as more economical inns and even campsites for those who like to rough it. What's more, there are lots of things to do, from golfing to swimming and other water sports, plus many activities organized especially for children. Finally/For the frosting on the cake/As if that weren't enough/To top it all off, the fresh air and quiet atmosphere guarantee you an invigorating, yet relaxing, break from city life.

Besides

In a con (negative) argument, the same expressions are used, with one exception: instead of in addition, besides is used.

I don't recommend the lake district for a family vacation. In the first place, it's very expensive for what it offers. In the second place, it's just as hot there as it is in the city, and besides, the place is full of mosquitoes. Finally, the roads that take you there are jammed with traffic all summer. Why not opt for a change of scenery and go a little farther away?

So far

So far indicates what has happened between the beginning of something and the present time. It can go before the subject or at the end of the phrase.

We have a hundred signatures on the petition so far.

So far we have a hundred signatures on the petition.

Still

Still has a number of meanings. Here it indicates that what follows is contrary to and more important than what preceded it.

I would like to have that job. Still, it would be very difficult for me to move to another city to be able to do it. (I probably wouldn't accept it if they offered it to me.)
It would be very difficult for me to move to another city to be able to take that job. Still, I would like to have it. (I would probably accept it if they offered it to me.)

On the other hand can be used for the same purpose.

I would love to move to a place with a better climate. On the other hand, my whole family lives here. (I'll probably stay here.)
My whole family lives here. On the other hand, I would love to move to a place with a better climate. (I might move.)

Since

Since has a number of meanings. It can indicate the beginning of a time period that extends to now.

I haven't seen my uncle since last Friday.
They've been living in their new house since June.

In the example conversations since means because, indicating convenience.

I can take you home, since your house isn't far from mine.
Since you came early, you can help me finish setting up for the party.

Yikes

Yikes is an expression that indicates surprise—either good or bad.

You have just won a trip for two to Hawaii.	Yikes! Wait 'til I tell my husband!
You are charged with driving more than fifteen miles over the speed limit.	Yikes! Wait 'til I tell my husband!

Good grief

Good grief is an expression that indicates mild displeasure.

More homework? Good grief, Miss Lim, you've already given us a paper to write!

Just sayin' . . .

Just sayin' . . . is an expression that is intended to subtly show the speaker's desire that you consider something just suggested.

There's a good movie on tonight, and I have a big flat-screen TV. Just sayin' . . .
It could be that you're being a little hard on your sister. Just sayin' . . .

I mean

I mean introduces an explanation or further comment on what was previously said.

I really don't recommend that teacher! I mean, she gives way too much homework.

You guys

You guys is an informal way to address more than one person. In the southern part of the United States, y'all is commonly used instead.

What are you guys doing for the Fourth of July?
What are y'all doing for the Fourth of July?

You people is considered extremely insulting. It's best not to use it.

Friction

Friction can mean unrest, difficulty, or disagreement between two or more people.

You guys have got to learn to get along. There is too much friction in this office.

Really

Really can be used in several ways. In the example conversation it indicates agreement with what was said before.

The new teacher is fantastic. Really, she says she will help everybody get an A.

Total

Total, when used as an adjective (before a noun), means complete.

He's a total slob. He never cleans his desk.

Zero

Zero, when used before a noun, means no amount of.

She's hard to work for. She has zero patience.

Squat

Squat means nothing at all.

I went to every class, and I didn't learn squat. It was all a review of the previous class.

Obviously

Obviously indicates that what is going to be said is already known by the listener(s); an alternative is of course.

John's dog just died. Obviously, he's feeling sad.

Hardly

Hardly means almost not at all.

She hardly has enough money to live on.

Hardly ever means almost never.

He hardly ever calls his mother.

Not exactly

Not exactly, when used before an adjective, means hardly.

Well, this is not exactly the best pizza I ever ate.

Inside out

Inside out can indicate that an inner surface has become the outer surface.

You have your shirt on inside out.

It can also indicate a thorough knowledge of something.

Get Pierre to help you with your French. He knows the grammar inside out.

Keep on

To keep on means to continue or not stop. It is followed by a verb in -ing form.

We can't take a break. We have to keep on studying.

Think outside the box

To think outside the box means to be creative or to always have new ideas for solving problems.

When she solved the school's traffic problem, she was really thinking outside the box.

Fall off

To fall off can mean, literally, to accidentally disappear from a high point.

He broke his leg when he fell off the diving board.

It can also mean to decline or be reduced.

Sales of new houses began to fall off during the month of January.

Put one's two cents in

To put one's two cents in means to offer one's opinion.

Everybody is arguing about this. OK, I'll put my two cents in: we should go home and think about this and then try to discuss it calmly next week.

A bit uppity

To be a bit uppity means to act as if you were superior to other people. Alternative expressions include to be stuck-up/to be snooty/to be a snob.

Maybe she's just not used to the job, but the new secretary seems to be a bit uppity.

Put someone's name up

To put someone's name up means to nominate someone for a position or office.

No, I'm not running for president of the fraternity. I don't know who put my name up.

Go along with

To go along with means to accept an idea or decision.

I really don't agree with some of these rules, but I will go along with whatever the majority decides.

Handle

To handle means to do whatever necessary to perform a duty in a satisfactory way.

The job is hard, but I think she can handle it.

To handle can also mean to touch.

Please do not handle the merchandise.

Had better

Had better indicates a warning and implies that if something isn't done, there will be negative consequences. It is usually used in the form of a contraction.

They'd better arrive on time. [Otherwise, they'll miss the bus.]

I'd better not go out tonight. [I have a test tomorrow that I need to study for.]

You'd better not tell anyone my secret. [If you do, I'll be very angry.]

Narrating a story

•11•

Conversation: A traffic accident

JACK: Hey, buddy, what happened to you? Don't tell me you broke your leg!

RAJ: No, it's not that drastic. I just twisted my ankle. Still, it hurts a lot, and walking with these crutches is a pain in the neck.

JACK: So when did it happen?

RAJ: It was the night of the basketball championship. And the worst thing is that we lost the game and all hopes of winning our title back.

JACK: What a bummer! Sit down here for a minute and tell me all about it.

RAJ: Well, it all happened last Thursday. It was pouring down rain and also freezing.

I was in a hurry to get to the gym early to chill out a bit before the game. I was all stressed out about the game when I left home, but I got in the car and started to drive toward the gym. All of a sudden my phone rang—it was my girlfriend. She was all excited about the game and wanted to wish me good luck. I started to get pumped up and ready for the game. My girlfriend and I kept on talking when I suddenly realized that the cars in front of me were stopped, and I was going a little fast. I slammed on the brakes, but it was too late. The street was wet, and I hit the car that was stopped in front of me. That hard braking caused me to twist my ankle. I could hardly get out of the car to talk to the other driver because my ankle hurt so much. To tell you the truth, I was so freaked out I didn't know what to do. I was thinking about the game, my girlfriend, my teammates—it never occurred to me that I wouldn't be able to play that night. Finally a cop came and made me sign some papers; then an ambulance took me to the hospital. They took some X-rays to see if my ankle was broken or not. Thank goodness it wasn't broken, but the upshot was that I wasn't going to play basketball that night. And now I'm stuck with these crutches.

Improving your conversation

The example dialogue is very informal and uses only a few of the traditional markers that indicate the order of events in a narration.

First/second/next/then/after that

In a more formal or longer narration, chronological order can be made clearer with the use of expressions such as first, second, next, then, and after that. The last event in the series is preceded by finally.

First, I got into the car and started to drive toward the gym.

Second, I had an accident.

Then I realized that I had twisted my ankle.

After that, they took me to the hospital.

Finally, I went to the game on crutches and watched my team lose.

Note that each of these expressions is followed by a comma (or pause, when speaking), with the exception of then. Second can be replaced with then, next, or after that, which are interchangeable.

This is what happened at the meeting this afternoon. First, we discussed the budget; second, the chairman announced the new position in Human Services. Next we talked about the problems in Customer Service. After that, we had a short coffee break, and then we had a chance to ask questions. Finally, we adjourned.

Finally

Finally can also indicate relief or joy that something long awaited or expected has happened.

After three long days on the road, I finally got to San Antonio.

Finally you're here! We expected you two hours ago.

Thank goodness

Thank goodness and thank God are other ways to express relief, joy, or satisfaction.

Thank goodness you arrived safely. Now we can celebrate.

Thank goodness and thank God (but not finally) can also express appreciation.

We have enough money to live on, thank God.

All of the children are healthy, thank goodness.

To top it all off

Sometimes a series of events are meant to tell a convincing story. To top it all off is an expression that is used to introduce a final event that adds weight to the sum of the previous events. Other expressions with the same function are for the frosting on the cake and as if that weren't enough.

First, my alarm didn't go off, and I woke up an hour late. Then I spilled coffee all over my suit and had to change clothes. After that, I got in the car and noticed that it was completely out of gas. Finally, I had to wait in a long line to get gas. And to top it all off, when I left the gas station, I was in the middle of a huge traffic jam.

All of a sudden

Events that interrupt a narration can be preceded by all of a sudden, suddenly, before I knew it, out of nowhere, out of the blue, and just like that—all of which mean without warning.

We were enjoying our picnic, when all of a sudden, it began to rain cats and dogs.

They were taking a test, when suddenly the fire alarm went off.

I stepped on a slippery rock, and before I knew it, I was on the ground.

He was driving down the street, and out of nowhere, a car approached from the left.

I was watching TV the other night, when out of the blue I got a call from an old friend whom I hadn't seen in ages.

I was feeling a little depressed, and just like that, my favorite song came on the radio and cheered me up.

The best thing and the worst thing

The best thing and the worst thing indicate that what follows is the most or least desirable aspect of an issue.

The best thing about this school is that it has wonderful students. They are all eager to learn.

The best thing you can do at this point is be patient.

The worst thing about this apartment is the location. It's not convenient to anything.

The upshot

The upshot of an issue is its result or outcome. This is often used to avoid telling a complete story or explaining an issue in detail.

I'm not going to give you all the details. The upshot is that Caitlyn has left town and won't be back.

An expression that has a similar function is the bottom line.

I just had a long conversation with the chairman of the company. The bottom line is that I've been promoted.

I don't have time to hear your whole story—what's the bottom line?

The bottom line is that I got fired and I'm looking for a new job.

Paper

Paper has a number of meanings. Paper is the most common material used for writing, printing, and cleaning, and it is in many manufactured goods. In this function, it is a non-count noun and is not made plural.

This book is made of paper.

We need to conserve paper in order to protect our forests.

Paper can also be a count noun, and can be made plural, when it means document.

We need to fill out a whole bunch of papers when we go to the doctor.

Paper is also a count noun when it means essay, written composition, or thesis.

I have two research papers to write, so I will probably spend the weekend in the library.

A paper can refer to the newspaper. The paper can mean today's newspaper.

She went down to the newsstand to buy a paper.

Have you read the paper yet? The news is amazing!

Bummer

A bummer is an item of bad news or bad luck.

Snow again! What a bummer! Now our flight will be canceled.

For serious occasions or tragedies, a shame would be a better expression.

I'm so sorry to hear about your dad's illness. What a shame!

Pain in the neck

A pain in the neck can refer to anything or any person that is annoying.

I wish my sister would stop banging on the door. She really is a pain in the neck.
I lost my Internet connection again. What a pain in the neck!

Cop

Cop is a slang term that means police officer.

There are cops stationed along the turnpike, waiting for speeders.

To cop out on someone has nothing to do with the police; it means to stop participating in an activity in which other people are counting on you. It indicates that the speaker is unhappy with this decision.

We had five players for the basketball team, but Steve copped out, and now we can't play a proper game.
Sandy promised to drive me to the game, but he copped out on me at the last minute, so now I'll have to take the bus.

Pouring down rain

To be pouring down rain means to be raining heavily. An alternative expression is raining cats and dogs.

The kids can't play outside; it's pouring down rain.
I had to pull the car off to the side of the road because it was raining cats and dogs.

Pumped up

To be pumped (up) means to be excited. An alternative expression is to be all excited.

We are both pumped up for the concert this weekend.
She is all excited about her date with you. Where are you guys going?

Stressed out

To be stressed out means to be very tense, nervous, or worried about something.

She has two sick children at home and is trying to work at the same time. No wonder she is stressed out!

Another way to express this feeling is to say that something stresses you out.

Having two sick children at home really stresses me out.

Freaked out

To freak out or be freaked out means to be extremely scared, angry, or excited. Also, something can freak you out.

He freaked out when he saw his sister driving his new car.
She is freaked out because she has three exams tomorrow.
That car speeding toward us really freaked me out.

Creeped out

To be creeped out means to be disgusted or frightened by something. Also, something can creep you out.

Those pictures of dead bodies really creeped me out.
It creeps me out that he just sits there and never says a word.

Another way to indicate disgust is to be grossed out.

It really grosses me out when the kids have food fights.

Stuck with

To be stuck with means to have to cope with an uncomfortable or undesirable situation.

My brother went out with his friends, and I'm stuck with looking after my little sister.

Chill out

To chill out means to relax or calm down.

Come on over! We're just chillin' out on the back patio.
Oooh! I'm so mad I could scream! Chill out, babe. It's not worth getting upset over.

Realize

To realize means to be aware of, to already know.

I'm sorry I yelled at you. I realize that I was wrong.

Wish

To wish means to be sorry that something isn't true. It is followed by a clause with a subjunctive verb.

[You are not here.] I wish you were here.
[I can't go with you.] I wish I could go with you.

Wish is also used in formal greetings.

We wish you a happy New Year.
I wish you the best of luck.

To tell you the truth

To tell you the truth precedes information that may surprise the listener.

Did you enjoy your trip? To tell you the truth, it wasn't that great.

Too

Too has a number of meanings. It can mean also.

I went home early, and Jon did, too.

- v. police officer
- w. result
- x. second
- y. then

Retelling a conversation

•12•

Conversation A: In the present tense

MIKE: Hey dude, what's up? I hear you have a new job. How's it going?

ADAM: Pretty well, so far. I have a lot to learn, but the people are nice, and there's not too much pressure.

MIKE: What do you do?

ADAM: Basically, I'm learning the ropes of management, studying the history of the company so I know how everything works.

MIKE: That's great! I hope it all works out for you.

MIKE (retelling the conversation): I asked Adam what was up and told him that I heard he had a new job. I asked him how it was going. He told me that it was going pretty well, so far. He said that he had a lot to learn but that the people were nice and that there wasn't too much pressure. Then I asked him what he did. He answered that basically he was learning the ropes of management and studying the history of the company so that he knew how everything worked. Then I told him that that was great and that I hoped it worked out for him.

Conversation B: In the present perfect tense

RENEE: Have you eaten yet?

EMILY: No, but I've already bought my lunch. Want to join me in the park?

RENEE: Thanks, but I've made a reservation for two at Kincaid's Restaurant. Have you ever eaten there?

EMILY: Yes, I've been there several times. It's great!

RENEE (retelling the conversation): I asked Emily if she had eaten yet, and she told me that she had already bought her lunch. She asked me if I wanted to join her in the park, but I told her that I had made a reservation for two at Kincaid's Restaurant. Then I asked her if she had ever eaten there, and she told me yes, that she had been there several times. She said it was great.

Conversation C: In the past tense

JASON: Where were you last night? We missed you at the party.

GINA: Oh, I had to go to my sister's house. They called her from the hospital at the last minute and asked her to work the night shift, so I went over to babysit for her kids. I ended up spending the night at her place.

JASON (retelling the conversation): I asked Gina where she had been the night before and told her that we had missed her at the party. She said that she had had to go to her sister's house—that they had called her sister from the hospital at the last minute and had asked her to work the night shift, so she had gone over to babysit for her kids. She said she had ended up spending the night at her sister's place.

Less formal:

JASON (retelling the conversation): I asked Gina where she was the night before and told her that we missed her at the party. She said that she had to go to her sister's house—that they called her sister from the hospital at the last minute and asked her to work the night shift, so she went over to babysit for her kids. She said she ended up spending the night at her sister's place.

Conversation D: In future tenses

BEN: Hi, Jeremy. What are you guys doing tonight? I'm kind of at a loose end since I broke up with Sydney.

JEREMY: Join us, then—we're going to hang out downtown—probably go to several places. Are you up for that?

BEN: Definitely. Where should I meet you? Better still, can you give me a ride?

JEREMY: Glad to. I'll pick you up at your place at 9:30. OK?

BEN: Perfect. I'll look out for you.

BEN (retelling the conversation): I said hi to Jeremy and asked him what he and the other guys were doing that night. I told him that I had been kind of at a loose end ever since I broke up with Sydney. He told me to join them and said that they were going to hang out downtown—probably go to several places. He asked me if I was up for that. I said that I definitely was and asked him where I should meet them. Then I told him that it would be even better if he could give me a ride. He said he would be glad to and told me that he would pick me up at my place at 9:30. He asked me if that would be OK. I said that it would be perfect and that I would look out for him.

Improving your conversation

Using the present perfect tense

The present perfect tense is used to indicate experience that relates to the present time.

The present perfect tense is formed by a conjugation of the verb have followed by the past participle form of the main verb.

The past participle form of most verbs is the same form as the past tense form.

Present tense	Past tense	Past participle
call	called	called catch	caught	caught
hit	hit	hit
join	joined	joined kick	kicked	kicked
like	liked	liked
love	loved	loved
teach	taught	taught
walk	walked	walked
work	worked	worked

However, many frequently used verbs have irregular past participle forms. Several examples follow. Check Appendix A for a complete list.

be	was/were	been
do	did	done
eat	ate	eaten
give	gave	given
see	saw	seen
take	took	taken

Expressions often used with the present perfect tense include the following:

Already

Already means at some time in the past and can indicate that the action does not need to be repeated.

I'm not hungry. I've already eaten.
You don't need to close the windows—we've already done it.

Already can be used in a question, indicating surprise that something has been done.

Have you finished high school already? (I can't believe you are old enough!)

Yet

Yet can be used in a question to find out if something has been done.

Have you eaten yet?
Have you taken the test yet?

Not yet

Not yet is used to indicate that something has not been done—and that it is expected to be done in the future.

We're hungry. We haven't eaten yet.
I'm not finished traveling. I haven't been to Africa yet.

So far

So far means as of this date or time.

She has come to class on time every day, so far.
How many continents have you been to? So far, I've only been to North and South America.

Ever

Ever means at any time in the past or future. It is placed between the modal verb and the main verb.

Have you ever been in California?
I won't ever do that again.

Ever can be used after never to emphasize its meaning.

He was never, ever, there.

Modal verbs

See Appendix C to review modal verb forms in the past, present, and future.

Direct and indirect discourse

A retold conversation is also called indirect discourse. Verbs that indicate what someone communicates to another include say, tell, indicate, explain, shout, yell, complain, cry, whisper, promise, and others. There are certain patterns for indirect discourse.

Pattern 1: Present tense + any other tense

When the communicating verb is in the present tense, the second verb is in its normal tense. This indicates that the speaker continues to affirm belief in what follows.

Joe: I buy French bread and cheese every Sunday morning.
Joe says (that) he buys French bread and cheese every Sunday morning.

Joe: I have bought French bread every Sunday morning for five years.
Joe says (that) he has bought French bread every Sunday morning for five years.

Joe: I bought French bread last Sunday.
Joe says (that) he bought French bread last Sunday.

Joe: I will buy French bread next Sunday.
Joe says (that) he will buy French bread next Sunday.

Pattern 2: Past tense + a previous tense

When the communicating verb is in the past tense, the second verb is in a previous tense, as follows:

present → past Note that the meaning is still in present time.
Joe: I buy French bread and cheese every Sunday morning.
Joe said (that) he bought French bread and cheese every Sunday morning.
(Joe buys French bread and cheese every Sunday morning.)

present perfect → past perfect
Joe: I have bought French bread every Sunday morning for five years.
Joe said (that) he had bought French bread every Sunday morning for five years.

past → past perfect
Joe: I bought French bread last Sunday.
Joe said (that) he had bought French bread last Sunday.

future → conditional
Joe: I will buy French bread next Sunday.
Joe said (that) he would buy French bread next Sunday.

Indirect yes-or-no questions use pattern 2 plus the word if.

Maria: Are you going out?
Maria asked me if I was going out.

Ben: Have you bought the bread?
Ben asked if I had bought the bread.

Ben: Did you buy the wine?
Ben asked if I had bought the wine.

Ben: Will you bring the wine next Sunday?
Ben asked if I would bring the wine next Sunday.

Indirect information questions use pattern 2 plus the appropriate question word (who/when/where/why/what/how/etc.).

Alex: What time does the movie start?
Alex asked me what time the movie started.

Kevin: What have you done?
Kevin asked me what I had done.

Thao: Where did they go?
Thao asked her where they had gone.

Salim: How long will the surgery take?
Salim asked how long the surgery would take.

Dude

Dude is a very informal way to address a male friend.

Hey, dude—what's up?

How's it going?

How's it going? is an informal greeting. It's often answered with pretty well.

Hi, Jamal. How's it going?
Pretty well, thanks. How are you?

At the last minute

At the last minute indicates that something happened immediately before it was too late.

The man picked up his tickets at the last minute—just before the show started.

Pressure

Pressure refers to the stress of responsibility people feel when too many things are expected of them at the same time.

It's hard to ever relax. I have so much pressure at work—and with two small children, there's pressure at home, too.

Learning the ropes

To be learning the ropes means to be getting acquainted with a new job or routine.

There's a lot of pressure at first, but once you learn the ropes, you'll be fine.

At a loose end

To be at a loose end means to temporarily not have anything to do or not know what to do.

Would you like me to paint your room? I'm at a bit of a loose end.

7. Don't worry about the tickets. I've _____ bought them.

Talking about controversial issues

Controversial issues are topics, issues—or matters—that people often disagree on. These topics are difficult to talk about—especially when friends or family members have different or opposite opinions and viewpoints. This chapter suggests some ways to talk about our different ideas. At the end of the chapter there is a list of some common controversial topics—to help you practice talking about the ones that are most important to you.

Conversation: Living with a vegan daughter

MIGUEL: Say, John, I heard that your daughter has decided to follow a strictly vegan diet. How do you feel about this?

JOHN: Well, I was upset about it at first, but she's fourteen now, and feels strongly about not wanting to cause harm to animals. She's a real animal lover—she's even thinking about studying to be a veterinarian one day. She believes that animals love life and fear death.

MIGUEL: But isn't it true that vegans don't eat dairy or other animal products either? I don't see how using their products hurts the animals.

JOHN: She maintains that the egg and dairy industries cause immense suffering and death as well.

MIGUEL: But aren't you worried that she's not getting enough protein and calcium?

JOHN: To be sure, it's a challenge. She spends a lot of time reading labels and looking for plant-based solutions for all the nutrients she needs. It does seem unnatural to a lot of people in our society. But she's serious about this, and I support her.

MIGUEL: How does this affect the rest of the family? It seems unfortunate to me if the other kids feel guilty about having pizza—or a birthday cake!

JOHN: If that happens, we will do everything we can to put a stop to it. Since this is her personal decision, she is the only one who should suffer—or benefit from—the consequences.

MIGUEL: How would you feel if she stopped going to parties—or even if her friends stopped inviting her to join them—because she can't eat what's being served?

JOHN: If that happened, of course I would be upset; I would find out how she feels about it, and also point out the social consequences to her. Then we could hopefully come up with a solution. I wouldn't mind inviting all her friends over—and serving them traditional food! But we could also include 'tastes' of vegan food to show them that it's not really scary.

MIGUEL: I can't believe that you are allowing your own daughter to follow this drastic diet! If I were you, I would encourage her to wait until she's at least eighteen.

JOHN: Well, we do believe that eating vegetables is good for your health, and we're passionate about protecting the environment, too. Keep in mind that veganism is becoming more and more popular everywhere and there is scientific evidence that it can improve your health. Plus, there are more and more vegan products on the market every day.

Improving your conversation

Starting a discussion

It's a good idea to find out the opinion of the person you are talking to before offering your own opinion. Here are some ways to begin:

How do you feel about [an issue]?
What do you think of [an issue]?
Do you believe that [statement about issue] is true/fair?

Here are some examples that use these structures:

How do you feel about veganism/trash pollution?
What do you think about vegetarianism/climate change?
Do you believe that avoiding meat/recycling is a good idea?

Stating your position

To give your own opinion on a topic, you could say:

I think
I believe
I feel strongly
It seems to me
I maintain

} that [your opinion about the situation.]

Here are some examples that use these structures:

I think that protecting the environment is our most important issue.
I feel strongly that drastic measures need to be taken to reduce our trash.
It seems to me that we must change our habits.
I maintain that all packaging should be sustainable.

To state that you are not concerned about a topic, you could say:

I don't care about
I have no interest in
I really don't want to talk about

} [that topic]

Here are some examples that use these structures:

I have no interest in talking about trash; it's the city's problem.
I don't want to talk about recycling because it isn't effective.
I really don't want to talk about veganism because it's a personal issue.

Having a firm opinion about:

You could also use one of the following expressions to describe your feelings about a topic:

I am _____ [that topic]

concerned about	slightly worried about worried about	quite concerned about serious about	extremely interested in committed to passionate about angry about upset about conservative on liberal on having a firm opinion about caring deeply about extremely disappointed about emotionally affected by in a negative way not wanting change

open to new ideas

Not having a firm opinion about:

I am _____ [that topic]

not interested in ignorant of wishy-washy about moderate on noncommittal on on the fence about not wanting to know about not knowing anything about having no strong opinion about not very liberal, but not very conservative having no opinion about unable to decide about

Here are some examples that use these structures:

Some of my friends are wishy-washy about recycling, but others are passionate about it.
I'm serious about wanting to help clean up the planet.
Our representative is too conservative on environmental issues.
She is too liberal on banning all pesticides.

Expressing your reaction to someone's statement

Here are some ways to agree—or disagree—with something someone else has said:

I can't believe
I like
I love
I hate

} that [statement of fact]

Here are some examples that use these structures:

I can't believe that you don't eat ice cream!
I like that you are thinking about this issue.
I love that children are learning at school to care about the environment.
I hate that we are still using styrofoam in our packaging!

Positive reactions:

a relief
encouraging exciting
It's fair good promising wonderful

} that [statement of fact]

Here are some examples that use these structures:

It's a relief that the government is finally doing something about this.
It's exciting that progress is being made.
It's promising that young people are working on solutions.

It's encouraging that so many countries are taking this issue seriously.
It's wonderful that we are getting rid of plastic straws.

Negative reactions:

It's } that [statement of fact] disturbing horrible disgusting ridiculous scary unfair
unnatural

Here are some examples that use these structures:

It's disturbing that so many people don't even care about this.
It's ridiculous that unsustainable products are still being manufactured.
It's unfair that we can't just throw everything in the trash.

Some strong ways to react to someone else's opinion:

I don't see } how you can feel that way /believe that /support that I don't know
I don't understand

Here are some examples that use these structures:

I don't see how you can believe that this isn't fair.
I don't know how you can allow her to do this.
I don't understand how you can support that idea.

Continuing the discussion

One way to continue discussing a topic is to ask a direct question:

Do you agree } that [statement of situation]?
Is it true
Do you think it's important

Here are some examples that use these structures:

Is it true that plastic straws in the waterways are killing turtles and birds?
Do you agree that more work has to be done?
Do you think it's important that our trash is polluting the waterways?

To make your position stronger, make these questions negative. This is a tricky way to make your opinion seem more logical!

Don't you agree } that [statement of situation/fact]?
Isn't it true
Don't you think it's important

These are some examples:

Isn't it true that plastic straws in the waterways are killing turtles and birds?
Don't you agree that we need to do something about this?
Don't you think it's important to return plastic bags to the stores?

To answer this kind of question you could say:

I agree _____ that [statement of situation,] embarrassing obvious ridiculous
It's true unconscionable unfortunate unthinkable
but it's also true _____ that [contrasting statement.]

Here are some examples that use these structures:

It's unfortunate that people are wishy-washy about protecting the environment, but it's also true that recycling alone doesn't solve the problem.
It's obvious that we all need to make an effort, but it's also true that we need stricter manufacturing laws.
It's true that we must respect our children's opinions, but it's also true that we must make sure they are healthy.

Talking about future possibilities

Many controversial issues involve making changes in the future. Here are some ways to discuss them.

Do you think that [proposed solution to issue] is _____?

optimistic (positive) opinions possible practicable/viable productive worthwhile

Don't you think that [proposed solution to issue] is _____?

pessimistic (negative) opinions impossible too expensive/too time-consuming/too unpopular counterproductive

a waste of time/a waste of money/a waste of effort

Here are some examples that use these structures:

Do you think that changing laws to protect the environment is practicable?
Don't you think that trying to educate our community is a waste of time?

likely change

To ask someone's reaction to a change that is likely: (probable/expected), use will + if/when + a verb in the present tense:

How will you feel if/when [an expected change occurs?]
What will you do if/when [an expected change occurs?]

Here are some examples that use these structures:

How will you feel if they ban plastic bags?

What will you do when the grocery stores don't supply plastic bags?

And to answer these questions, you could say:

If [probable change happens], I will be	{	ecstatic	/	angry
		happy		frightened
		overjoyed		scared to death relieved		upset
		satisfied		very unhappy
thrilled	worried

or

If [probable change occurs], I will	{	accept it	/	complain celebrate		move away
		thank somebody		protest

Here are some examples that use these structures:

If they ban plastic bags, I will be relieved.

If that happens, I will accept it, and take my own bags to the grocery store.

unlikely change

To ask someone's reaction to a change that is unlikely: (possible, but not probable), use would + if + verb in subjunctive (past tense form):

How would you feel if [an unlikely change occurred]?

Here are some examples that use this structure:

How would you feel if your son decided to be a vegetarian?

How would you feel if the county stopped collecting the trash?

Answers to these questions could be:

If [unlikely change] happened, I would be	{	satisfied	/	worried
		happy		very unhappy
		relieved		frightened
		overjoyed		upset
		thrilled		angry
		ecstatic		scared to death

You could also ask:

What would you do if that [unlikely occurrence] happened?

If [improbable change] happened, I would	{	celebrate	/	complain say thanks		protest
		accept it		move away

Here are some examples that use this structure:

If they stopped recycling glass bottles, I would be angry.

If that happened, I would complain.

Expressing hope for future action

To state your opinion about what should happen in the future, you could say:

We must make sure	}	that [statement of future action]
I hope
It's (absolutely) necessary
It's vital

Here are some examples that use these structures:

We must make sure that better packaging is developed.
I hope that plastic bags are banned.
It is vital that we listen to the scientists.

Put a stop to Put a stop to means to make sure a custom or practice ends.

We must put a stop to street violence.

Expressions that can strengthen your argument even Adding even before an item can make it seem surprising or exceptional.

All the people in my neighborhood, even 92-year-old Mrs. Andrews, take their empty glass bottles to the recycling station.
She even carries the heavy bottles herself.

Putting not even before an item can make it seem inexcusable.

She doesn't even worry that her children eat junk food.
My roommate doesn't even pay attention to the recycling bins.
Don't you even know what scientists are predicting?

own

Adding own before a possessive makes its object more personal and more important.

The politician says he cares about the environment, but his own company is a big polluter.
Parents need to consider their own habits if they expect their children to have good ones.

to be sure

Adding to be sure to a statement can make others feel that you understand their position.

To be sure, it's a lot easier to just throw everything in the trash and send it to the landfill.

do

Do and does are normally used for forming questions and negatives, but adding them to a positive statement can be used to correct someone else's impression.

A: But you don't even believe we should try to save the planet!
B: I do believe we should try, I just think we need to take a different approach.

Ending a discussion

To end a discussion, you might use any of the following expressions:

I'm glad we could talk about this.
Let's talk about this again later.
Let me know when we can discuss this again.

Here are some other useful ways to end a difficult conversation:

Compromise

Compromise is a position that takes both sides of an argument into account. This can also be called a happy medium.

Let's try to reach a compromise: I'll accept some of your arguments, and you accept some of mine.

To compromise

To compromise means to reach a compromise/to reach a happy medium.

We have decided to compromise and make some changes that she wants, and some changes that I want.

The committee has reached a happy medium, and both sides are satisfied.

To clear the air

To clear the air means to frankly state the opinions of all opposing sides on an issue.

We didn't solve the problem, but at least we cleared the air, and now we can try to work out a solution.

To see eye to eye

To see eye to eye means to agree; to have the same opinion

To keep in mind

To keep in mind means to not forget; to consider.

It's clear that we don't see eye to eye on this topic, but let's keep the facts in mind and try to find a solution.

Keep in mind

Earlier chapters in this book introduce words and expressions that can be used in a controversial conversation. Review these when you are planning your discussion:

- Chapter 5: Let's say; Look; Listen; Of course
- Chapter 6: Have a look; One more thing
- Chapter 7: By the way
- Chapter 8: In the first place; For a start; Plus; In addition; Besides; As if that weren't enough; At least; After all; Matter; Just the opposite; Sick and tired; Count on; Not exactly; Hardly
- Chapter 9: Happy medium; The same old thing; On the other hand; Since; Still; No way

Chapter 10: Pros and cons; In the first place; Besides; Still; Since; I mean; Obviously; Hardly; Not exactly; Go along with; Had better not

Chapter 11: The best/worst thing; The upshot; Stressed out; Creeped out; To tell you the truth

b. to be serious about
c. to be angry about
d. to not care about 5. a. to be liberal on
b. to be conservative on
c. to not be interested in
d. to be concerned about

EXERCISE13·2

Write P in the space by each positive reaction; write N in the space by each negative reaction.

1. _____ a relief
2. _____ disturbing
3. _____ encouraging
4. _____ exciting
5. _____ unnatural
6. _____ fair
7. _____ horrible
8. _____ promising
9. _____ scary
10. _____ wonderful
11. _____ disgusting
12. _____ good
13. _____ ridiculous
14. _____ unfair
15. _____ unfortunate

EXERCISE13·3

Make each of the questions negative to form a more convincing argument for your case.

1. Do you agree that this is a problem?

2. Is it true that our local government is corrupt?

3. Do you think we need to discuss this further?

4. Would you like to study this issue in depth?

5. Could you try to see my point of view?

6. Do you even care about this matter?

EXERCISE

13·4

Combine each set of sentences into one sentence by adding but it's also true that.

Example: It's great that our roads are improved, but it's also true that our taxes are higher.

1. It's unfortunate that more people don't recycle. The county program isn't very efficient.

2. It's unconscionable that she doesn't protect her own children. She needs help with her addiction problem.

3. It's horrible that so many people don't vote. They don't think their vote counts.

4. It's a shame that she didn't run for office. She has a lot of responsibilities at home.

5. It's great that more and more people are following a healthy diet. Junk food is still very popular.

EXERCISE

13.5

Write a sentence beginning with If for each item. Indicate that it is likely to happen, followed by your probable reaction.

Example: He will win the tennis match. If he wins, I will be very happy.

1. Your classes will begin at 9 a.m.

2. The government will provide free health care for everyone.

3. Local teachers will earn an average of $150,000 a year.

4. Your favorite music group will give a concert in your home town.

5. Your team will win the tournament.

EXERCISE

13.6

Write a sentence beginning with If for each item. Indicate that it is not likely to happen, followed by your probable reaction.

Example: He will win the tennis match. If he won, I would be very happy.

1. Your classes will begin at 9 a.m.

2. The government will provide free health care for everyone.

3. Local teachers will earn an average of $150,000 a year.

4. Your favorite music group will give a concert in your home town.

5. Your team will win the tournament.

EXERCISE

13·7

Use do or does to indicate that an accusation is not true.

Example: You don't study. I do study!

1. Your son doesn't practice his violin.

2. She doesn't have a job.

3. You don't care about the environment.

4. We don't work hard enough.

5. He doesn't drive too fast.

EXERCISE

13·8

Choose a controversial topic that you feel strongly about. Fill in the blanks to express your feelings on this issue.

I feel strongly about _____

In fact, it seems to me that _____

On the other hand, I have no interest in _____

I can't believe that _____

I love that _____

I hate that _____

It's encouraging that _____

It's disturbing that _____

If _____, I will

If _____, I would

To be sure, some people don't even care about _____

I hope that _____

Electronic conversation

•14•

While face-to-face conversations are still considered to be the best ones, people everywhere are depending more and more on electronic devices for communication. Apart from the fixed telephone, which has been around since 1876—and is still going strong—conversations are now also carried on through cell phones, e-mail, and other electronic devices.

E-mail

E-mail (electronic mail) enables written conversations that are either typed on a computer or cell phone keyboard or entered on a touch screen on a cell phone or other electronic device. These messages are then sent to the desired recipient via the Internet. In order to use e-mail, you need to have an e-mail address, and you need to know the e-mail address of the person with whom you wish to communicate.

E-mail addresses can be assigned by the company that provides an Internet connection or through companies that issue subscriptions through the Internet. An e-mail address begins with a series of numbers or letters (of the individual's choosing), followed by the symbol @ (pronounced “at”), and then followed by the name of the provider, a period (pronounced “dot”), and finally a suffix of two or three more letters that indicates the domain—the type of organization that is providing the e-mail account. Here are some examples of these final domain letters:

com	commercial (the most widely used suffix; preferred by businesses)
edu	education (for schools, colleges, and universities)
gov	government (for government organizations)
net	network (most commonly used by Internet service providers)
org	organization (primarily used by nonprofit groups and trade associations)

The suffix can alternatively indicate the name of the source country. For example:

au	Australia
es	Spain
mx	Mexico
uk	United Kingdom

IM

An IM is an “instant message,” designed to get the immediate attention of the person contacted. Electronic devices give an audible signal when an IM is received.

Apps

App is an abbreviation for application—the term given to a program that can be used on electronic devices for a variety of purposes—including instant communication.

Texting

Texting is the practice of sending written messages from one cell phone to another, using the receiver’s telephone number.

Texters often leave out the vowels in words or make up abbreviations in order to communicate faster. For example:

cd	could
cls	class
cn	can hv	have prnts	parents
sndy	Sunday
tchr	teacher
wd	would

Emojis

This graphic artwork, usually in digital form, includes a variety of symbols and drawings (including smileys) that can illustrate an IM, email, or text.

Smileys

A smiley is a cartoon—often of a face with an exaggerated expression that is meant to show how the sender of an IM, email, or text feels.

☺, :)	I’m happy.
☹, :(I’m unhappy.

Social Media

Social media is the general term for sites that enable people to interact with each other as well as with the general public in a semi-public way. These include Facebook, X (formerly known as Twitter), Instagram, TikTok, plus new ones almost every day. Other forms of social media enable people to meet on-line, to buy and sell items, and to share interests in various ways.

Acronyms

Acronyms are combinations of letters that are used as abbreviations to replace words and expressions. Acronyms and other symbols are commonly used in e-mail, texting, and tweeting. They may be in all capital (uppercase) letters, all lowercase letters, or a combination of the two. There are really no rules!
