Introduction

Here is an amusing team game for practicing spelling.

Procedure

Divide the students into four teams.

Invite one player from each team to come to the front of the class.

Give each player a marker or chalk and have them put on a blindfold.

Have teammates stand the players a meter or two from the board.

Say a word you want the players to spell. The players then find their way to the board and race to spell the word as quickly as they can.

You can also have the players spin around a few times beforehand and have their teammates direct them to the board.

The first player to spell the word correctly in a readable format scores three points for their team, the second player scores two points and the third player scores one point.

A new player from each team then comes to the front and the game continues with a new word.

Continue the game until everyone has had a chance to play.

The team with the most points at the end of the game wins.

For higher-level students, you can give the players sentences to write.
