Introduction

In this fun interjections board game, students race to check off interjections from a list by using them appropriately in sentences.

Procedure

Divide the students into groups of three or four.

Give each group a copy of the game board, a dice and counters.

Each player writes their name above one of the checklists on the game board.

Players begin by placing their counters on the start square.

The players then take it in turns to roll the dice and move their counter along the board in any direction.

Players can turn and double back as desired. If a player passes either of the 'Teleport' squares, they can jump to the opposite side of the board. Teleporting uses up one move, so if a player rolled a five and used the teleport, they would only move a total of four squares.

When a player lands on a gap-fill sentence square, they complete the sentence with one of the interjections from their list.

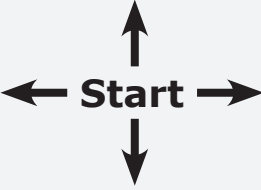

If the sentence is correct, as judged by the other group members, the player checks off the interjection on their list. If students are unsure, they can ask you for the answer.

The first player to check off all the interjections on their list wins the game.
