Introduction

In this future perfect game, students guess which countries other students are going to on holiday from clues read out in the future perfect simple.

Procedure

Divide the students into groups of three or four.

Give each group a set of cards.

Ask the students to shuffle the cards and place them face down in a pile in the middle of the table.

The students take it in turns to pick up the top card from the pile, without showing it to anyone.

The student then says "By the end of my holiday..." and reads out the three clues on their card, turning the prompts into future perfect sentences, e.g. 'By the end of my holiday, I will have drunk sangria...'

The other students listen to the clues and try to guess where the student is going on their holiday, e.g. 'You are going to Spain'.

The first student to make a sentence, guessing the correct country wins and keeps the card.

If no one manages to correctly guess the country after a few tries, the student with the card wins and keeps the card.

The game continues until all the cards have been used.

The student with the most cards at the end of the game is the winner.
