Introduction

In this adverbs of degree game, students practice the adverbs of degree: more, a little bit, so, very, quite, all, nearly, and too.

Procedure

Divide the class into groups of four.

One student is the 'reader' and is given a set of sentence cards.

The reader shuffles the cards and places them face-down in a pile on the desk.

The other three students are 'players' and are given a set of adverb of degree cards each.

The players shuffle their cards and spread them out face-up in front of them.

The reader picks up the top card from the pile and reads the sentence aloud to the players using the word 'blank' for the missing adverb of degree.

The players listen and then race to grab the correct adverb of degree card to complete the sentence.

The first player to grab the correct adverb of degree card from their set and give it to the reader, saying the adverb of degree at the same time wins and keeps the sentence card.

The adverb of degree card is then placed back in the player's set.

The correct answer is shown for the reader on the sentence card.

The student with the most sentence cards at the end of the game wins.

Afterwards, students repeat the game with a different student reading the sentences.
